DROUGHT AREA MAY BE GIVEN U. S. ROAD AID

FORTY MILLION GIFT TO SPEED HIGHWAY WORK

BY WILLIAM HARD

(Copyright 1930, by the Escanaba Press)

Washington, Aug. 16—One of the most instant possibilities of drought relief, growing out of the president's conference of Thursday, was developed today in the strong chance that on the first of nexa month the federal government, through Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture and Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of piblic roads, will allot to the principal drought-stricken states a sum of money amounting to approximately thirty-five or forty million dollars in anticipation of the costs of federally aided highway construction in those states during the federal fiscal year beginning July ,1 1931.

This anticipation and acceleration of federal assistance would not bring the money immediately to the states but would enable them to finance an immense amount of emergency road building and to furnish a corresponding amount of employment to sufferers from the drought and also to sufferers from the general business depression in full assurance of reimbursement of the federal part of the expense from the federal treasury.

States Have Credit

Federal Road Chief MacDonald states that additionally in ready cash the principal drought-stricken states have standing to their credit in the accounts of the federal government some twelve or fifteen million dollars of unexpended unobligated balances on which they can draw immediately in precise proportion as they are ready to meet their share of the expense in pursuance of the standing co-operative road building arrangements between the federal government and the state governments.

Mr. MacDonald further states that in Federal national forests and in Federal national parks the Federal government is in this current year expending on road construction a total of some fifteen million dollars out of its own treasury and that these expenditures can possibly be somewhat accelerated in states such as Montna, for instance, which has suffered severely from drought conditions, although, as Mr. Macdonald points out, the possibility of Federal assistance under this head is strongly limited by the remote locations and high altitudes of much of the national forest and national park road development.

Governors Stay Over

Several governors who attended the president's conference Thursday are staying over in Washington for the special purpose of consulting with the Federal authorities on the speedy allocation and utilization of Federal funds for road building purposes; and it is their view that the gratuitous relief which is to be furnished to drought sufferers by the Red Cross and the loans

Workers Trying to Recover Bodies Of Disaster Victims

Blakeburn, B. C., Aug. 16 (AP)—Despite belief that lower levels of the Blakeburn mine, in which an unexplained explosion last Wednesday entombed 46 men, was a blazing furnace, rescue crews re-entered its main tunnel again today after being forced to withdraw last night because of smoke and gas.

As mine officials and rescue workers all believed today none of the men remaining in the mine could be alive the death list was set at 45. Four bodies have been brought out and one man got out alive. Forty one miners are not accounted for.

W. A. McKenzie, minister of mines, decided today to resume the search and personally led the party into the tunnel.

Tanker Explosion Injurious to Six

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 16 (AP)—Six persons were injured, three seriously, in an explosion aboard the Atlantic Refining Company's tanker Brilliant at the National Refining Company's docks here tonight. Immediately after the explosion the tanker burst into flames.

The tanker arrived here today from Brunswick, Ga., with a cargo of gasoline.

The fire which followed upon an explosion in the engine room was reported under control an hour later.

ZUTA'S RECORD REVEALS MUCH

Rich Profits in Booze Business, Politicians Are Incriminated

Chicago, Aug. 16. (AP)—The ledger of a slain gangster furnished eloquent testimony today, something no living hoodlum ever gave.

It told of the rich profits of the liquor traffic of a notorious gang's losses in a dog race enterprise, of loans and gifts and contained the names of judges, policemen, and politicians.

At the criminal court building a corps of photographers was busy throughout the day making photostatic copies of more than 300 pages from the ledger of Jack Zuta, the Moran manager who was shot dead by four men just two weeks ago in a Delafield, Wis., dance hall, while he dropped nickels in a music box.

Judge Joseph Schulman of the municipal court, payee of checks totaling $2,000 and endorser of notes aggregating $3,500, hastened home from South Haven Mich., to offer explanation of his dealings. Needing money to build a home several years ago, he said, he had obtained the required sum from Morris Greene, an attorney, giving his personal checks with advanced dates to be cashed later in settlement. Greene was attorney for Zuta.

Can't Remember

Louis I. Fisher, attorney and brother of a judge, told the investigators he could not remember for what purpose he was given $500 and $100 checks made out by Zuta to currency and indorsed by Fisher.

While the state's attorneys investigators took Zuta's post mortem testimony from his minutely detailed books, others hunted through the city for two trunks believed to contain other records,

Death Postpones Kidnaping Trial

Detroit, Aug. 16 (AP)—Death of Benny Rubenstein's daughter last night caused postponement today of the trial of Rubenstein and Harry Hallisey on a charge of kidnaping.

Rubenstein was given permission to attend the funeral Sunday, under police guard. The daughter, Hilda, 17, died in a hospital last night after a long illness with a spinal infection.

The two defendants are on trial for the kidnaping of Reuben J. Cohen two years ago. They are alleged members of the gang of kidnapers and extortionists said to have been headed by joseph "Legs" Laman which terrorized Detroit's underworld for several years

Minneapolis Concern Gets New School Job

After thoroughly checking and analyzing the numerous bids received for the various contracts for the new junior high school, Henry H. Turner, architect, late last evening announced that the general contract for the construction of the school has been awarded to the Mads Madson Company of Minneapolis whose bid was $312,551.

Other contracts were awarded as follows:

Heating, ventilating, plumbing and insulation to O. J. Dykman, Grand Rapids. Bid $64,444.

General electrical work—E. J. Electric Company. Bid $12,948.

Inter-communicating telephone system—E. J. Electric Company. Bid $2760.

Clocks and Program—International Time Recording Company, Oshkosh. Bid $2675.

Temperature control—Johnson Service Company, Milwaukee. Bid $6179.

The total expenditures of the contracts awarded is $401,557, considerably under the estimate of $410,000.

According to a telegram received by Architect Turner last evening from the Mads Madson company of Minneapolis who were awarded the general contract, all local labor will be employed to construct the building. They also reduced their original bid $210 and will use concrete cinder units in construction. Work will be started as quickly as equipment can be sent to Escanaba, the telegram also stated.

Blame Faulty Fuse For Ohio Jail Fire

Columbus, O., Aug. 16. (AP)—A delay in the operation of a fuse caused 320 convicts to die in the Easter Monday fire at the Ohio penitentiary but prevented the possible escape of 4,000 into the city of Columbus to spread terror, officials investigating the cause of the blaze revealed today.

Investigators found that a group of convicts had planned to set fire to the I and K cell blocks while hundreds of their comrades were in the mess hall and out in the prison yard.

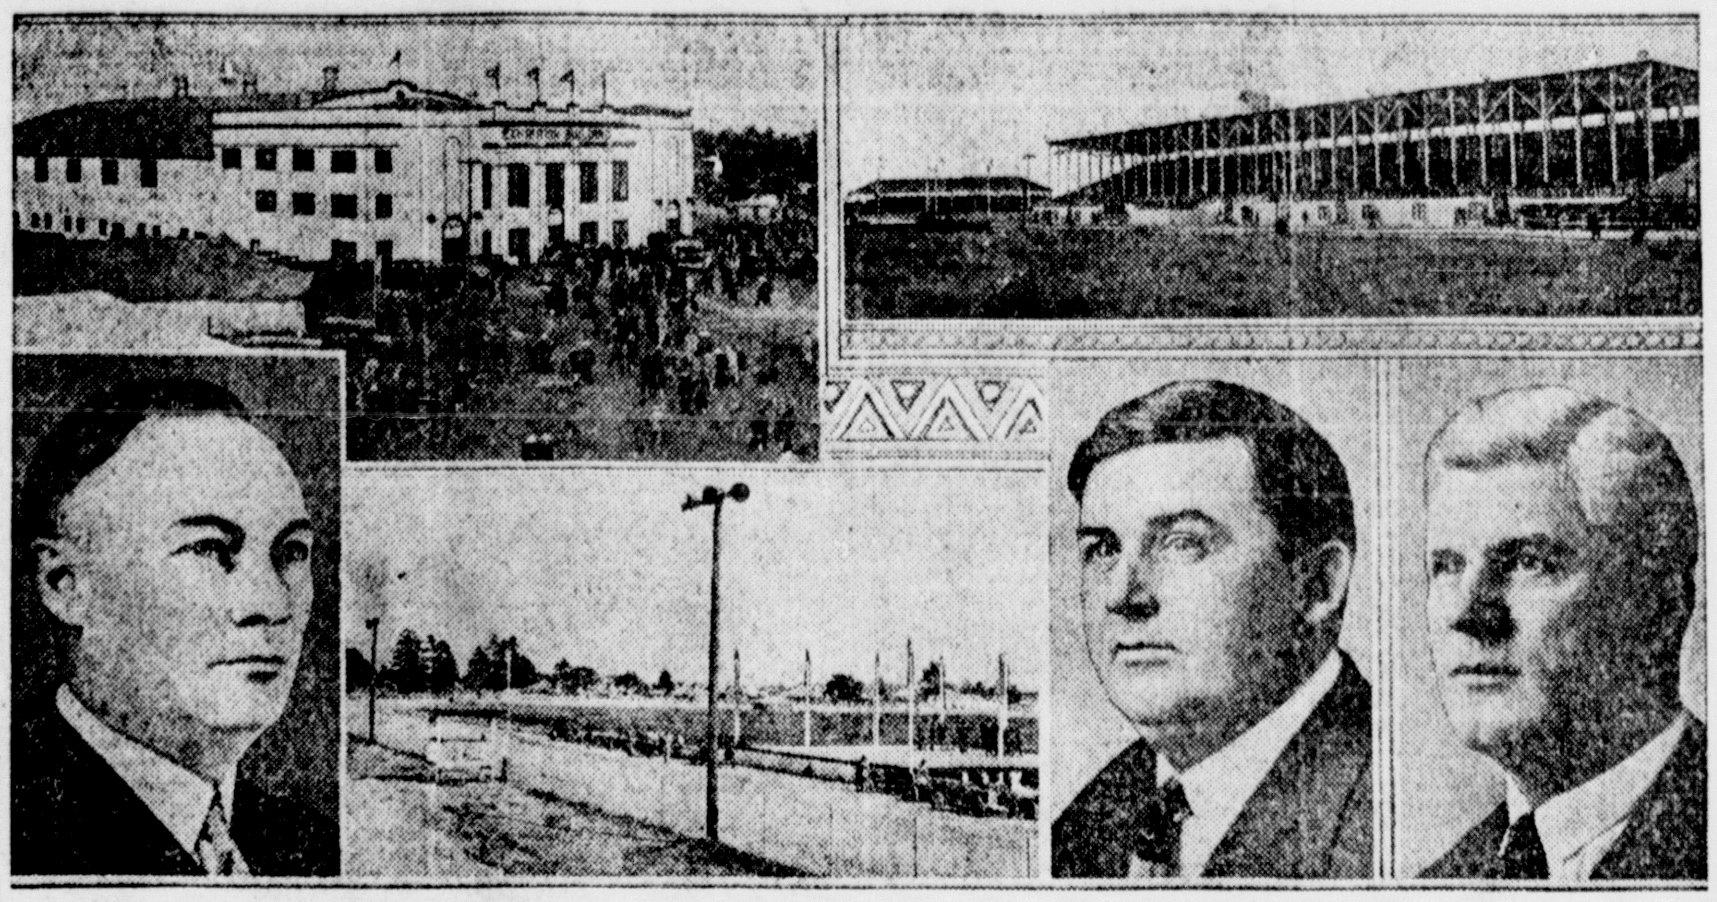
Highlanders Await Arrival of Stork

Glamis, Scotland, Aug. 16 (AP)—Hundreds of highland folk in kilts and plaids attended the flower show at Airlie Castle today, and the hope expressed on all sides was that the expected child of the Duke and Duchess of York would be born Sunday.

Many of them who live nearby went home after the annual show, but those from some distance prayed that the great event would occur while they still were in town and free of work.

The first public reference to the expected royal child was made today by J. R. Clynes, the Labor home secretary, who is here to record the infant's birth officially.

Officials and Buildings of Upper Peninsula State Fair



All is in readiness for the opening of the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba tomorrow. The entire personnel is on the job and the buildings are in splendid condition. Here are shown views of the new exhibition building, the huge grandstand and the performers' platform and race track. Reading left to right are the following officials of the fair: State Senator Herbert J. Rushton, manager; A. A. Lundgaard, president of the board of directors; and George E. Harvey, secretary.

FOUR PERSONS DIE IN FLOOD

Cloudburst Wreaks More Than $11,000,000 Damage

Boston, Aug. 16 (AP)—Four persons were killed and damage estimated at more than $11,000,000 was done in Massachusetts and Connecticut today by a cloudburst which was accompanied by thunder, lightning and hail.

In Wochester two children almost drowned as the rain flooded the streets and swept them from their feet. It was this city in the center of the state which apparently suffered the brunt of the storm. As the storm swept a path westward and southward the tobacco crops at Windsor, Enfield, Thompsonville and Suffield, Conn., and Westfield and Southwich, Mass., were all but destroyed by hail and rain.

Three of the dead were killed at Windsor when lightning struck a shed in which they had taken refuge on a tobacco plantation. They were Fred Dibble, 51; George Nolan, 42, and Alfred Seam, 50, of Poquonock. Philip Wolf was injured by the bolt.

Streets Flooded

At Framington, Mass., Charles Bowse, 30, of West Concord, was eating lunch with 20 other workmen in a house they were renovating, when he was killed. Ernest McGrath, 28, and Walter McGrath, 20, brothers, were rendered unconscious by the bolt which came through the ceiling above the table at which the group was eating.

At Weymouth on the south shore a taxicab driver was seriously in-

British Airship Home After 57 Hour Flight

Cardington, England, Aug. 16. (AP)—The R-100, largest airship in the world, tonight swung in her home berth after successfully completing a 57-hour crossing of the Atlantic ocean from Canada.

The airship arrived over Cardington airport at 10:40 a. m. today (4:40 a. m. E. S. T.) and was safely moored 1 hour and 20 minutes later.

Eighteen days ago the great craft left for St. Hubert airport, Montreal, the outward crossing was made without incident except for a tear in one of the fins. After 13 days in Canada the R-100 started for home and made excellent time until she reached the mid-Atlantic.

There she encountered heavy wind and rain which slowed the speed at one time to 15 miles an hour, but later the weather cleared and the big ship, with a tail wind boosting her along, speed over the ocean at 92 miles an hour.

The dirigible left Montreal at 8:28 p. m. E. S. T. Wednesday night and completed the 3,287 mile crossing in 57 hours 12 minutes of flying time, as shown by the log.

Great crowds witnessed the landing, giving a warm welcome to the members of the crew and the passengers. Then, after sending a consignment of fresh Canadian flowers to Queen Mary and box of Canadian peaches to the Prince of Wales, the officers and men went to their homes for rest while the lessons of the flight were studied by Britain's air experts.

E. W. Grange, who was correspondent for the Associated Press and the Rueter Agency of London on the return journey, spoke enthusiastically of the comfort, speed and safety of the airship.

He related how the passengers conversed in the dining saloon until after midnight last night, then went to bed and slept peacefully without knowing that the R-100 was battling an ocean storm. He remarked, too, that the average speed of the airship from Montreal to Cardington was approximately three times that of the steamships the dirigible passed.

It is believed that better cooperative measures between Great Britain and Canada for mapping Atlantic weather will result from the flight. Much valuable information regarding air currents was obtained and the knowledge gained will be applied to the charting of future flights.

Steamer Disabled in Pacific Awaiting Aid

(By The Associated Press)

Approximately 300 men, women and children passengers and crew of the Union Line steamship Tahiti which became waterlogged and disabled in the south Pacific 460 miles southwest of Rarotonga, Cook Islands, Sunday, were anxiously awaiting the arrival of the Norwegian freighter Penybryn, nearest of four vessels in that general vicinity rushing to render assistance.

Reports received Saturday in San Francisco direct from Suva by the Associated Press and by the Matson Navigation company from its steamer Ventura said all on board had taken to lifeboats and abandoned the Tamiti.

A report from Wellington, N. Z., at 5 a. m., Sunday, New Zealand time (2 p. m. E. S. T. Saturday) said the master of the disabled ship had countermanded the order to take to lifeboats and arrival of the Penybryn was expected Sunday afternoon, New Zealand time. Transfer of passengers and crew to the Penybryn was to take place before dark.

Due August 29

The Tahiti, one of the largest ships plying the Pacific, left Wellington for San Francisco August 12 with 175 passengers and a crew of 142. It was due in San Francisco August 29.

The vessel got into trouble when it lost its starboard propeller and tailshaft and began to leak. The cause was not ascertained. The No. 4 hold began to leak early Sunday, New Zealand time (9:30 a. m. E. S. T. Saturday). Captain A. T. Toten and master of the ship, ordered all aboard to lifeboats.

It was this order that was countermanded, presumably when it was realized the vessel would remain afloat until the Penybryn could reach it.

In addition to the Penybryn, three other vessels were rushing to the Tahiti. These were the Matson liner Ventura, enroute from Suva; the Tufoa, diverted from the Fiji Islands, and the Tague, enroute from Mangaia. The Ventura was expected to reach the Tahiti Sunday night, New Zealand time.

The Tahiti, a twin screw liner of 7,898 gross tons, was built in Glasgow in 1904. It was operated by the Union Steamship company under British registry. It is 460 feet long, 55.5 feet wide and 24.4 feet deep. Its officers are all New Zealanders. Captain Toten was making his first voyage as its master.

A dispatch from Pago Pago to the Associated Press this afternoon quoted a radiogram from the Tahiti as saying they were still holding on and the Ventura was 115 miles away, expecting to arrive 2 p. m. Sunday, New Zealand time.

Eddie Schneider Now In Wichita

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 16 (AP)—Eddie Schneider, 18-year-old Westfield, N. J., youth, attempting to establish a new junior trans-continental flight record, arrived here tonight at 7:45.

Schneider left St. Louis at 1:25 p. m.

Schneider was delayed in his arrival here by a severe wind and rain storm which visited this section late this afternoon. It was thought for a time he had been forced down somewhere between here and St. Louis. He was delayed in taking off from St. Louis by low visibility and threatening storms.

The junior flyer's elapsed time from Westfield to Wichita was 14 hours and 58 minutes.

Voice of Air Bungalow Says Everything is O. K.

St. Louis, Aug. 16 (AP)—The "voice of the little orange and yellow bungalow" came back on the air this afternoon to tell the world that neither the motor of the record-breaking endurance plane Greater St. Louis nor the ship's determined pilots, Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, were weary after nearly four weeks in the air.

The plane's radio transmitter was repaired after having been silent for about two days and jackson told the ground crew the engine's oil pressure was still satisfactory.

"This is the life," he said, "although our bungalow leaks some when it rains."

At 2:11 p. m. (S. S. T.) today the fliers had been circling around Lambert-St. Louis Field for 631 hours, or about 26½ days. If they are still up early Monday morning they will have rounded out four weeks of their projected flight of 1,000 hours, or approximately six weeks.

The airmen have left the former world's refueling endurance record of the Hunter brothers nearly 80 hours behind them.

While the flight was making good progress, the financial end of it was faltering. Funds for continuing the grind, exclusive of $8,800 the fliers have earned since breaking the record, amounted to $3,884 today. Salaries of the refueling crew and official observers, amounting to $440, were to be deducted but the weekly fuel bill was put off. The flight is being financed by public subscriptions and collections yesterday amounted to only $75.

A benefit performance for the fliers was billed tonight at a local theater.

Curtis Leaps from Coach to Aid Woman

Portsmouth, R. I., Aug. 16 (AP)—Vice President Charles Curtis jumped from William H. Vanderbilt's coach to aid a woman knocked over by the horses here today.

The accident occurred at the entrance to Oakland Farm, the Vanderbilt estate. The party was returning from the Newport horse show to a garden party with Everett Colby of Orange, N. J., prominent New York lawyer, at the reins.

The horses, frightened by a band, shied slightly and Mrs. Bertha Horton of Providence, and Mrs. J. B. McLennan of Portsmouth, were knocked over. The vice president jumped from the coach to Mrs. Horton, who was not seriously injured, while Mayor Mortimer A. Sullivan of Newport dragged Mrs. McLennan from in front of the coach's wheels. Mrs. McLennan was taken for treatment to the Newport hospital.

3,000 Cases Of Beer Disappears

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 16 (AP)—Investigators for the Dominion government at Ottawa are to come to Windsor to investigate the charge that 3,000 cases of beer disappeared from the steamer Vedas which was seized last night by Canadian customs officers and moored since then at a government dock here.

The Vedas, a 200-foot steamer which served as a mine sweeper for the British navy during the World war, cleared from Montreal with 15,000 cases of beer, valued at more than $60,000. The entire cargo was consigned to Port Arthur, Ont.

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED ON OPENING DAY

FINE PROGRAM OF ENTERTAINMENT THIS YEAR

Putting before the public's gaze a panoramic view of Hiawathaland's agricultural, industrial, commercial and recreational activity, the third annual Upper Peninsula State Fair will open Monday for six days and six nights.

With favorable weather for the week indicated, this year's exposition is expected to attract a record-breaking attendance. In all departments there has been made a decided improvement, another reason why the third annual fair will compare favorably with the biggest and best state fairs of the country.

Half Holiday Monday

Stores and industrial plants of Escanaba will close Monday afternoon to allow employees to attend on Delta-Schoolcraft-Alger county day. Residents of other communities in the district are coming in large numbers on the first big day.

Exhibits and entertainment programs of unusual quality will reward those who attend this year. In the division of agriculture, the finest products of the great upper peninsula farming region, including grain, vegetables and fruits, will be shown in the main exhibition building.

Competition in the livestock departments is keener than ever before, with the finest pure bred animals of the state represented. The exhibits of cattle and swine will be larger, even, than those of last year, and the quality of the former is declared to be the best in the history of the fair.

Loma Farms Exhibit

The wonderful Loma Farms, owned by Louis G. Kaufman, Marquette and New York financier, will again send their prize winning herds of cattle and other livestock. A novel feature this year will be the exhibits of the Herefore beef cattle from the Rosebush Triangle Ranch of Amasa, the largest ranch of its kind east of the Mississippi river. There will be a lively race between the various counties for county herd championship honor. The famous dairying counties of Chippewa, Dickinson, Iron, Gogebic and Delta are entering some unusually fine cattle in competition for the trophy.

All the other branches of farming will be represented with high class entries in the swine, horses, poultry, sheep, horticulture, agriculture, floriculture, 4-H clubs, and other departments. School exhibits will be of interest to many fair visitors.

4-H Work Emphasized

Boys and girls 4-H club work has been given more prominence than ever before, the fair association recognizing that the success of tomorrow depends on the training of the young people of today. Their contests will be highlights on the week's schedule. In response, the boys and girls of the peninsula are manifesting increased interest. Each county will send its champions to participate in the judging and other which are to be extended to them out of the funds of the Federal farm board and of the Federal farm loan board will not constitute a proper solution of the problem unless to a certain large number of the sufferers there is given an opportunity to go to work and to earn some money for the immediate support of themselves and their families.

The Federal government has already obligated itself to the extent of one hundred and eighteen milion dollars for road construction now under contract and going forward in co-operation with the road building authorities of the states. This work can be accelerated in many places at the desire of the states. In addition it is thought by the Federal bureau of public roads that the state authorities, in cases in which the contracts for Federally aided highway construction have not yet been placed, could transfer some of the building projects from counties which have not been seriously affected by the drought to counties in which the drought suffering has been most severely felt.

Produce Employment

These possibilities all put together would produce a decisive quantity of emergency employment in the rural communities most disastrously affected by the drought and would importantly enable them to purchase feed and other necessaries from the communities fortunately able to supply them. The greatest difficulty in the way of a successful realization of such intentions is that the states will need in many cases to do some large and bold financing and borrowing in order to be able to match the proposed Federal assistance with immediate proportional expenditures of their own under the Federal highway construction law. At this point it is thought by the Federal government that the most powerful bankers of the country should come forward to help the states with quick financing measures.

accounts which the prosecutors were confident would yield new sensational evidence.

Perusal of another sheet from the books today showed it to be a penciled version of the profit and loss sheet inspected yesterday—possibly the original copy, but revealing a discrepancy of [illegible] in the cash balance. In the difference investigators saw a possibility that Zuta had "doctored" his accounts.

James Lewis Will Face M'Cormack On Prohibition Issue

Chicago, Aug. 16. (AP)—James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for United States senator, who has announced he would oppose Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican, for the senatoiral toga chiefly on the prohibiton issue, placed that issue in the forefront of the platform he made public tonight, and which he asked the state convention to adopt next week.

Mr. Lewis said he would introduce to the convention planks dealing with prohibition, unemployment relief, jury service for women, soldier compensation, a national pension system, waterways and taxation.

The Democratic candidate reasserted his opinion that repeal of the Volstead act and the eighteen amendment was unnecessary to permit state legislation in prohibition enforcement and temperance administration.

State Senator Dies In Mysterious Way

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP)—State Senator John T. Joyce, who feared death because he had testified in court that gunmen invaded the 42nd ward during the April primary election, died under mysterious circumstances today and his brother charged he had been poisoned.

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen announced that Joyce died of "Oedema of the brain due to toxic origin," and ordered his chemist to make histological and pathological examination of the tissues and fluids of the body. He found no visible evidence of poison in the Joyce apartment.

Senator Joyce, a witness at a recent hearing of ouster proceedings against the head of the election board, was asked to name some of the gunmen he said he had seen cruising about the ward on election day

CONSERVATION SHOW FEATURE

All Phases of Department's Work to Be Portrayed at Fair

Work of the Michigan Department of conservation throughout the state will be forcefully brought to the attention of all visitors of the Upper Peninsula State Fair by the department's wonderful exhibits which will be one of the feature attractions of this year's show.

Exhibits portraying all branches of work conducted by the department will be shown: mainly, wild animals and birds, fisheries, forest fire prevention, state parks, game protection, pollution control, geology and land economic survey.

Again, as last year, the display of wild animals and birds, and the fish exhibit will be the two major exhibits. In the former, with the exception of a few fancy pheasants, only material native to Michigan will be displayed. Again in the fish exhibit, only fish indigenous to Michigan waters will be used. These include all of the desirable, much sought game species, as well as a number of specimens of noxious habits. In both only live specimens are shown.

Education is Motive.

The Division of Forest Fires displays equipment, tools, maps and other material incident to the suppression of woods blazes. The Parks Division exhibits a miniature state park fully equipped, supplemented by a large state map showing locations, roads, lakes and streams. In the Game Protection display are shown furs, pelts, guns, traps, nets and other material taken as evidence of the patrol work and other activities of the conservation officers. Pollution control shows samples of contamination and pollution with a working model of a modern disposal plant. In the Geology exhibit are shown samples of oil, a model oil rig in operation, and pictures, tables and other data concerning Michigan oil fields, in the Land Economics Survey booth are a number of charts, and a complete set of maps and photographs to explain the work of this division.

The prime motive, common in the preparation of each of the exhibits is education. The main aim is to give information regarding Michigan's natural resources and to better acquaint the people with the department's branches and activities in administering conservation principles.

Famed Bugler Boy Retires from Army

Fort Benning, Ga., Aug. 16 (AP)—The bugler boy who was first over the walls of Peking during the Boxer rebellion in 1900, was retired today, almost 30 years to a day from the date of the historic exploit that brought him the congressional medal of honor and an appointment to the West Point military academy.

Lt. Col. Calvin P. Titus, an instructor in the infantry school at Fort Benning, was enroute to Los Angeles, where he will engage in Bible study and teaching.

Titus was a young enlisted man when the Americans stormed the walled city of Peking, August 14, 1900. The Boxers opened a galling fire on the attackers, who rushed to temporary shelter near the foot of the wall.

Titus' colonel believed that if the wall could be climbed the Americans might surprise the Boxers and gain entrance to the city. Titus volunteered for the job.

He climbed the 30-foot wall, pulled a rifle after him and opened fire on the enemy, surprising them. Other Americans followed and built up a firing line, which gradually overcame the Boxer resistance and led to the capture of the city. During the fighting Titus received a slight wound.

Congress voted him a cadetship at West Point and President Roosevelt went to the military academy and personally pinned the medal of honor on Titus' blouse.

Although Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Titus are leaving the army, they are not leaving the army behind them, for their son also is a West Point graduate and is commissioned in the air corps.

New York Is Hit By Freak Weather

New York, Aug. 16 (AP)—A freak storm which lashed parts of New York with huge hail stones and jagged lightning and left other portions of the metropolis unscathed today sent thousands scampering from the streets to shelter and caused some delay in the transportation system.

The storm, which was preceded and accompanied by a smoky fog that made it necessary to turn on electric lights during part of the day almost caused a collision between the liners Leviathan and the Albert Ballin in the north river.

Aaken Marisen, 23, employed as a fireman at a Fifth Avenue apartment house, where Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes has an apartment, was killed by lightning as he was cleaning a water tank on the roof of the building.

Man Who Said He Killed Buckley Is Taken to Hospital

Detroit, Aug. 16 (AP)—Edwin L. Miller, who "confessed" yesterday to the town marshall of Stryker, Ohio, that he killed Jerry Buckley, was a patient for the fourth time in the psycnopathic ward of Receiving hospital tonight, his story disproven, and police were no further advanced in their investigation of the radio commentator's death.

Miller was brought back this morning from Ohio by two detectives who went to Stryker to question him. His story of being the lone assassin, hired by a "dark, foreign looking man" for $25 to kill Buckley failed utterly of substantiation when compared with accounts of eye witnesses. They all are agreed that three men fired the eleven shots which pierced Buckley's body early on the morning of July 23 as he sat in the lobby of the La Salle hotel.

The man was ordered placed under the care of a specialist in mental diseases by County Prosecutor James E. Chenot after questioning.

Lucas Says Demos Are Bucking Hoover

Washington, Aug. 16. (AP)—Charges by Robert H. Lucas that the Democratic party had opposed every effort made by President Hoover to restore business and provide employment were denied today by Senator King, Democrat, of Utah.

Lucas, who today assumed office as executive director of the Republican national committee in a statement said the Democrats had selected the "natural misfortune of the nation—the suffering of the unemployed—as a campaign issue of 1930." Because of this, he said, they could not lend their support to corrective measures without "depriving their party of a battle cry for the campaign."

Two Convicted of Insulting U. S. Flag

Elmira, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP)—Ailene Holmes and Mabel Husa, directors of the Workers International Relief camp at Van Etten, near here were convicted of insulting and desecrating the American flag in justice of the peace Westbrook's court at Van Etten today. Each was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and to spend three months in the Monroe county penitentiary.

The charges resulted from the alleged refusel of the two young women to accept an American flag for the camp. A red flag bearing the sickle and hammer was destroyed by a group of Pennsylvanians last week.

contests. A sum of $2,821.50 is offered in prizes in this department.

Altogether, $35,000 in premiums is being offered to exhibitors at the Upper Peninsula State Fair. Another big feature is the $6900 horse racing program which will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. There will be other contests to decide the upper peninsula championship in horseshoe pitching, cow calling, and horse pulling.

Wonderful Entertainment

On the other hand, of equal importance, are the entertainment phases of the great project. Outstanding among the variety of amusements, in the opinion of the fair management, is the gigantic evening show, featured by the "Fiesta of 1930", which is composed of such headline attractions as a concert by the Royal Scotch Highlanders Band and its famous solists, and performances by the Pavley-Oukrainsky ballet troupe. The fiesta represents the most ambitious effort yet made by theatrical producers to outdo anything of a similar nature ever seen on an open-air stage. The show is designed to furnish a rich evening's entertainment and to provide unexpected surprises and thrills to the most critical of critics.

The stage setting is amazing in size and an example of the best in artistic stagecraft. A huge stage, 60 by 60 feet, will be added to the fair's permanent platform on which will take place the gorgeous costume parades, the dance divertisements of the famous Pavley-Oukrainsky ballet and the specialty numbers. The Scotch Highlanders band remains on the rear stage in the accepted style of the finest presentations in the theatres of the larger cities.

More than fifty artists take part in the fiesta, among them being celebrities of note, such as Bobbie Broulier, Dora Hilton, Roy D. Smith, Julia E. Compton, Lyldia Arlove and Sana Rayya.

The fiesta is presented in the evening in addition to the regular afternoon program of vaudeville acts, consisting of Christiansen's Horses, The Honey Troupe, Will Morris, Gordon's Dogs The Three Jansleys and Billy Lorette.

Crowning each night's program will be the spectacular display of Thearle-Duffield fireworks, which are worth the price of admission alone.

Officials at Fair

The following officials of the Upper Peninsulta State Fair are all doing their part to make it a success: General director in charge, Herbert E. Powell, Lansing; president, A. A. Lundgaard, Cornell; vice president, A. W. Thompson, Iron Mountain; treasurer, J. S. Weidman, Jr., Trout Creek; manager, H. J. Rushton, Escanaba; secretary, George E. Harvey Escanaba; directors, W. A. Munro, Munising; Dr. R. S. Buckland, Baraga; A. Wesley Clarke, Saulte Ste. Marie; Alvin L. Rummel, Wakefield; Earl D. McDonald, Calumet; L. A. Johnson, Iron River; Dr. W. T. King, Ahmeek; John T. Turnbull, Newberry; J. D. Erskine, Allenville; W. W. Blake Arkcoll, Marquette; Dr. A. Sanders, Stephenson; and Paul R. Baldwin, Manistique.

KEEP AWAY TODAY.

Because exhibits are being hauled to the fairgrounds all during the day, the management has requested that sightseers keep away from the grounds today. The grounds will be officially opened Monday afternoon for patrons.

Lundgren Awaiting Brighter Weather

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Aug. 16. (AP)—Ted Lundgren, Los Angeles aviator, took off with two mates in his monoplane today for Old Orchard, Me., on the first leg of a round-the-world flight, but a few minutes later he landed in milky fog at Mitchel field, and gave up the attempt until tomorrow.

With him were Roger Williams, who recently made a non-stop flight to Bermuda and back, and William Margalis, army reserve pilot, either or both or whom may accompany him on his projected world-circling tour, in which Berlin is the next objective after Old Orchard.

jured by a bolt which struck his cab.

The estimate of at least $1,000,000 damage came from Worcester where stores and cellars in the hilly city were flooded. Water rushed down side streets with such force and filled sewers so quickly that manhole covers were ripped off by the force of the water and geysers five feet high spurted from the sewers.

Two children atempted to cross Vernon Square, at the foot of a steep, long hill, when a sudden rush of water trapped them. They were swept off their feet and one of them, a girl, was carried away by the water and caught beneath an automobile. Men rushed to her aid as she was drowning. She was taken to a hospital.

At Enfield, Conn., more than 100 acres of tobacco fields were destroyed at a loss exceeding $40,000.

ALUMNI BACK LECTURE PLAN

Michigan Clubs Support Project of Escanaba Women

Strong endorsement of the efforts of the Escanaba Woman's Club to bring lecturers to Escanaba during the winter from the University of Michigan extension department, was given by the meeting of the University of Michigan clubs of the Eleventh district near Munising recently.

The alumni pledged their support to the Escanaba club and the other organizations which are co-operating in bringing the speakers for a series of lectures on topics varying from conservation to intra-mural sports, to Escanaba, Manistique and Norway.

Meeting at the University of Michigan forestry camp, the alumni were entertained at a dinner given by the School of Forestry. Prof. Robert L. Craig of Ann Arbor then spoke on the development of the School of Forestry, and Prof. Shirley Allen, also of Ann Arbor, spoke on national legislation with reference to forestry conservation. T. Hawley Tapping, director of the University of Michigan alumni association, was present.

T. E. Strom, of Escanaba, who has been director of the district for the past year, was succeeded by A. E. Miller, of Marquette, in the elections at the annual business meeting. Dr. Harold L. Mead, of Menominee, was elected president of the district; Paul Gero, of Manistique, vice president; Atty. Herbert Potter, of Ishpeming, secretary, and Claude Coates, of Munising, treasurer.

Two Escanaba Girls Hurt While Touring

Miss Verna Brotherton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Brotherton of this city, and Miss May Cretens of Gladstone, who are on an automobile trip to Minneapolis and points in Wisconsin and Minnesota, were slightly injured while in Minneapolis when an automobile hit the rear end of the car in which they were riding. The two young women were taken to a hospital where their bruises were dressed and although they were thoroughly frightened their injuries were not very serious.

They have left Minneapolis and are enroute to their homes.

By decomposing natural gas at high temperatures and recombining its constituents, products ranging from artificial rubber, anaesthetics and motor fuel, to dyes and explosives, are being obtained.

Police Break Up Gang Of Young Desperadoes

The Forest Scouts, a group of youthful bandits who had organized in emulation of Jesse James, had an untimely ending to their criminal careers, when members of the police department yesterday raided their rendezvous, a log cabin, two miles west of the North Western ore yards.

As a result, two boys, 18 and 19 years old, will be arraigned before Judge Henry E. Ranguette tomorrow on a charge of breaking and entering cabooses of the North Western line, and three youngsters, ranging from 10 to 14 years of age, will be brought before Judge Judd Yelland Wednesday.

Loot found at the cabin had been taken from cabooses left on sidings at the ore yards during the past two months. The boys had succeeded in hauling the following articles to their lair: one first aid kit, four caboose lamps, 13 tin cups, three crockery cups, four claw hammers, one shovel, two red torches, one axe, three cooking pots, one jug, one frying pan, one coffee pot, one looking glass, two blankets, one caboose cushion, one caboose pillow, and six plates. The boys had also stolen a quantity of salt and pepper, coffee, sugar, milk, and canned goods.

A library book, "The Thundering Herd," which had evidently inspired the young desperadoes, proved their undoing. The book was overdue, and the name of the boy who had borrowed it gave police a clue to the identity of the gang who then were under suspicion. Officers had heard stories of a camp in the woods from youngsters in north Escanaba, which lead to an investigation and discovery of the shack yesterday.

Police realized they were not dealing with ordinary crooks when they discovered the lay-out. The cabin was neatly furnished. Even a "look-out" had been constructed in a tree nearby where one of the gang, in most approved Diamond Dick fashion, could watch for the "shiruff" and his posse.

Local police co-operated with Mr. Morgan, North Western detective, in making the arrests.

OBITUARY

TOIVO J. WARPULA.

Many relatives and friends attended the funeral services which were held for Toivo J. Warpula, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Warpula of Rock, which were held Saturday at noon at the family home where the body had been removed from the Anderson Funeral Home and at one o'clock at the Finnish Lutheran church with Rev. Kaarto officiating.

Many flowers were received at the home where scores of friends called to extend their sympathy.

The pallbearers were John Rajala, Andrew Karna, Waino Mattella, Emil Ruusi, Victor Ruusi and Jack Pilkela.

Interment was in the family lot in Rock cemetery.

MISS DOROTHY STUHT

The body of Miss Dorothy Stuht daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Stuht of Milwaukee formerly of Escanaba, is expected to arrive this morning. It will be taken to the Allo Funeral Home and services will be held at St. Joseph's church Monday morning at nine o'clock.

Members of the family are accompanying the remains to this city. Interment will be in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery.

MRS. WILMUR BENNETT

The body of Mrs. Adrienne Bennett wife of Wilmur Bennett was taken from the Anderson Funeral Home Saturday afternoon to the family home at Nahma. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at nine o'clock at St. John's church at Garden with Rev. Fr. V. C. Savageau of Garden as the celebrant at the requiem high mass.

Burial will be in Nahma cemetery in the family lot.

Arrest Four Youths For Hurling Stones

Four Brampton youths who have been hurling stones into the cabooses of Northwestern freight and ore trains passing through Brampton, will be hailed before Judge Judd Yelland this week. Several windows on the trains have been broken through the practice, it was stated. The boys, who are first offenders, will probably be put on parole with a second offense making them liable to confinement in a state reformatory.

Officers are using the arrest of these boys as a warning to others.

Banks of Escanaba Will Close Monday

The banks of Escanaba will not be open for business Monday afternoon, in compliance with the proclamation of the mayor of Escanaba, and in cooperation with the management of the Upper Peninsula State Fair, it was stated yesterday.

Habits of Our Birds

BY ROBT. H. WRIGHT

Munising, Aug. 16.—(Special)—A peculiarly strange sight was witnessed by some of the residents of Munising one afternoon recently, at about four o'clock in the afternoon, when hundreds of small hawks circled about for over two hours above the city.

We wish some ornithologist would explain the habits and the nature of these hawks. They circled high above us, exactly as a fleet of monoplanes would, with not a perceivable flutter of a wing, just soaring, circling and floating. Beneath each wing of every hawk was a plainly distinguishable white circle, exactly resembling some distinguishing mark on the under side of each wing of a monoplane, as it soars above you.

Thus these hundreds of hawks resembled fleets of miniature airplanes circling above us. We inquired from various ones who might know, but all disclaimed knowledge of ever having before seen so strange a sight. It was suggested that perhaps these hawks were attracted by flies or insects that had been carried into the upper stratums of the atmosphere, but this does not seem plausable. Where did they come from, what were they doing and where did they go, as they suddenly disappeared altogether? Would not this furnish a problem for ornithologists and for scientists, a strange and mysterious manifestation of the scheme of life we see but cannot understand, therefore pay little attention to it, unnoticed but for the fact that occasionally some of us look up instead of down, out of mere curiosity to discover whether the sky is clouded and a rain will spoil our joy ride, and, as we look, we are unexpectedly attracted by a strange phenomena of nature we cannot comprehend.

Robin Most Noticed.

Some of the northern feathered tribes are so common to our sight that they excite but little interest. We know but little of their lives, their manners and customs. Like human beings they are born, they choose their homes, the fight for their kind, and carry on their mission in the great scheme of life.

The robin is noticed more than any of the other common species, just because he is a harbinger of spring. The savage knew that when he saw the first robin in the spring, there was warm weather south, and that meant the coming of spring, north. Thus human selfishness promoted the popularity of the robin. He became a calendar denoting the coming of spring and, his departure meant, also, the departure of summer. That constitutes the common knowledge of the robin. But if you watch his movements, you will discover his wonderful characteristics. He stands still on a lawn, suddenly with a quick hop, he drives his beak into the soft soil and as he raises his graceful head you will observe that he has his morning meal in his bill, a fat angleworm. How quick his eye and movement! Watch two in flight: One will follow another, tip of beak almost to tip of tail. The one behind will follow every movement of the one in front, turning just exactly at the same time, making a curve, a down shoot and up shoot or a complete turn in perfect harmony. If two persons were to run at top speed, one closely following behind the other, and the first one were to make a sudden turn, it is likely that the one behind would keep right on going straight ahead. No human intelligence, only his eyesight could guide his steps, but the robins either possess the keenest sight of all, or there is some psychological cause for the perfect harmony in flight. Who can explain it?

About th Kingfisher.

The kingfisher will alight on the crest of a cedar tree on the bank of a stream or the shore of a lake. He sits immovable, until his keen eyesight detects his prey and like a flash of blue lightning, he projects his body into stream or lake and emerges with his meal, a fish, which his keen eye has detected.

There are many curious things connected with the habits of birds. The purple martin, for instance, is the real tourist, who comes early in spring and departs for the south before school starts. Generally some scout martin comes along on his long journey from the Gulf of Mexico to find a good camping place for his family. When he arrives here, sometime in May, he lights on a telephone wire or some such convenient perch and rests for a day or so, too tired to stir. If he sees a martin house, that the sparrows have already lined with grass, he starts back and tells his folks about it and they all come, oust the sparrows from the home not intended for them, and after a fight of two or three days, they occupy the place , raise their young, feed on the flies and insects in the air and sing gloriously in the morning. Some day late in August the whole family have disappeared.

No Martins This Year.

This year there were no martins in Munising. The reason we can only surmise. Martin houses were ready to receive them, but there were no sparrows to line the nests with grass. The sparrows have likewise disappeared. Why have the sparrows gone? The horses are gone. And the few remaining sparrows that have been picking up a precarious livelihood since the advent of the automobile and the disappearance of the horse, have been hunted by boys with air guns, the boys stimulated by the bounties paid for sparrows by the state of Michigan. So the sparrow has become an outlaw and he has had to leave his former haunts.

Yet of all the feathered tribes the sparrow is one of the most intelligent of all. He is easily tamed, give him a name and he will respond to it. He is hardy and aggressive and is willing to fight his way, but he dresses in drab colors and does not know how to sing any of the popular airs, and his habits are ungentlemanly.

August is the month of yellow colors. Nature, like a vain and capricious woman, affects new styles for every spring and summer month. She likes yellow or golden colors for the month of August. The golden glow, and the golden rod, the yellow wild mustard, and other yellow vegetation, is now in full bloom and the wild canaries, yellow in color, are now with us in large numbers, harmonizing with the landscape. We wonder if these canaries could be tamed and taught to sing like their relatives of the Hartz mountains?

The Rowdy Bluejay.

Another of our familar friends of the feathered tribe is the bluejay, a perfect rowdy, whose sole recommendation to an introduction, is his beautiful attire of blue. Before the snow leaves the ground he comes in large numbers into town seeking food. In summer he leaves for the woods and, as you drive along any highway, he might cross your trail, light in a tree, squack and fly on, ever on the move.

In the depths of the forest, when you leave the beaten paths, you will occasionally see a blue bird, a red bird, the red headed woodpecker who is continually hammering away at the trunk of some old tree in search of his food.

The brown thrasher, the creepers, the sap-suckers and the ground birds, of several varieties, are numerous, and all offer an interesting study to the lover of nature.

Observation of the bird-life of Alger county should furnish an interesting part of the itinerary of every tourist who comes north.

JUNGLES

Not the Tropical Kind; They Are Home of City's Bums

Down along the north shore where two scraggy pines make the scenery, and driftwood furnishes the fuel, the annual encampment of drifters and "down-and-outers," enlarged this summer by industrial depression, gathers each day around roaring camp fires.

"Traveling around the world on a shoe string" was a picturesque metaphor that didn't mean anything when it was coined, but to Box Car Pete and Railroad Sam, the phrase exactly describes their nodescript existence. They arrived in Escanaba on a freight train in the morning, spend all day gathering eats for the "cooking up" which comes at any hour, curl up in a box car at night, and find themselves whisked away to another city the next morning.

It isn't an easy living, and yet it isn't hard either.

The north shore habitat is labeled a "jungle" by those who frequent the place, but "junkle" more nearly describes it, for tin cans and pails, pleasantly reminiscent of many steaming meals, lie in piles wherever they were thrown.

Most numerous are the canned heat containers, which remind the initiated of many cheap hobo "jags." The contents of the cans were placed in handkerchiefs out of which the liquid was squeezed. Two cans full make a man drunk.

There are two types of floaters at the Escanaba "jungle"—those who are professional hoboes, and many who are temporarily out of work. The latter type, single men who admit they would have money if they had married, find living in the outdoors necessary until more jobs open for them.

Although criminals are often found among the floaters, most of them are honest. Their food and clothing come from charitable housewives and lenient storekeepers.

The professional, of course, doesn't care much about work. He feels strongly the urge to travel, even though his journeys are made in a dark box car, or behind the rocking coal car of a locomotive.

Performances of Ballet and Band Heartily Praised

The following letter written by the secretary of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce, Monroe, Wis., was received by George E. Harvey, secretary of the Upper Peninsula State Fair:

Mr. George E. Harvey,
Escanaba, Michigan.

Dear Sir: I see by the Development Bureau News that you are to have the Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet at your fair next week. We had them here last week at our county fair, and it was their remarkably fine performance that saved us from a large deficit. It is the most finished and prettiest thing we ever had here and coupled with the excellent music of the Scotch Highlander band, it made as good an evening's entertainment as Monroe can ever hope for. I congratulate you on your selection of such high-class talent for your fair.

Very respectfully,
F. J. BOLENDER.
Secretary Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

The Luther League meeting will be postponed one week due to activities at the Fair.

We have had a splendid assistance from some of our men during the past week, in making the necessary preparations for the serving of meals at the Fair Grounds. Serving of meals began yesterday and will continue tomorrow and throughout the week. For this work we need the assistance of all our ladies, young and old. Kindly volunteer your services.

We are happy to be able to announce that Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nelson, who have just returned from a year's sojourn in Sweden, will on Monday evening, Aug. 25th, give us something about their observations and experiences made while abroad. Mr. Nelson will speak in the English language and Mrs. Nelson will speak briefly in the Swedish language. She will also contribute a number of vocal numbers. This event will be given under the auspices of the Lutheran Brotherhood. There will be no admission fee charged, but an offering will be lifted. It is hoped that all our people will attend this event, to be held in the church parlors at 7:30 p. m.

Eastern Star Delegates Will Leave Wednesday

Five members of R. C. Hatheway Chapter, Number 49, Order of the Eastern Star, are leaving early Wednesday morning for Houghton and Hancock to attend the annual meeting of the Cloverland District association of the Order of Eastern Star which will convene in the two copper country cities on August 20, continuing for two days.

Mrs. Isabel Wilson is the delegate of R. C. Hatheway Chapter. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Marie Rose, Worthy Matron; Mrs. Jessie Edwards, Conductress; Mrs. C. M. Frost, past president of the Cloverland District association; and Mrs. Nora Koepp of Chicago, who is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Rose.

Elaborate plans are being made by the Houghton and Hancock Chapters for the entertainment of the grand officers, delegates and guests.

Wednesday afternoon, August 20, and Thursday morning, August 21, will be devoted to the registration of delegates and visitors at the Masonic temple, Houghton. Rooms will be assigned the visitors at the same time.

The first social session will be held Wednesday evening in the Masonic temple, Hancock, when a reception will be held for the grand chapter officers, delegates and visiting members.

The visitors will be the guests at a complimentary luncheon Thursday noon in the Masonic temple, Houghton. A business session will follow at 2 o'clock in the temple.

The convention banquet for all members will be served Thursday at 5:30 at the Douglass House. The final session will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Masonic temple, Houghton.

The Cloverland District Association was organized April 19, 1916, in the Masonic temple, Marquette. Its present officers are:

President—Margaret B. Beattie, St. Ignace.

First vice-president — Esther Ellsworth, Ewen.

Second vice-president—Dr. E. C. Lockart, Norway.

Secretary-treasurer — Carrie Elms, Vulcan.

Chaplain—Lydia Gill, Ishpeming.

Marshal — Laura Eggleston, Houghton.

Herman Nelsons To Speak Here

Mr. and Mrs. Herman G. Nelson who have just returned from a year's visit in Sweden, will speak at the Bethany Lutheran church the evening of Monday, August 25, under the sponsorship of the Lutheran Brotherhood. Mrs Nelson will speak briefly in the Swedish language, and Mr Nelson will speak in the English language. The talk will deal with the observations and experiences during the trip. There will be no charge but a free-will offering will be taken. The public is invited.

Jackson-Westman

The marriage of Miss Anna Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Jackson, of Ironwood, and Mr. Arthur Westman, of Ironwood, son of Mrs. Anna Westman of that city, took place Saturday afternoon in Escanaba.

The ceremony was performed at 3 o'clock in the parsonage of the Swedish Methodist church, Rev. O. R. Palm, pastor of the church, reading the marriage service. The attendants were Miss Gladys Jackson of Kankakee, Ill., a sister of the bride, and Ruben Pearson of Chicagg, a close friend of the bridegroom.

The bride was attired in an ensemble of orchid with a matching hat and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Westman left on a wedding trip to the Dells at Kilbourne, Wis., and to other points of interest in Wisconsin. They will return to Ironwood where Mr. Westman is engaged in the confectionery business, and where they will make their home.

The bride has been a member of the Escanaba high school faculty where she was engaged in teaching domestic science, and her marriage will be of wide interest to her many friends here.

Showings of Newest in Autumn Wear Feature Escanaba Merchants' Hospitality Week

Stores Arrange Special Displays For Fair Guests

Townspeople and visitors here for the third annual Upper Peninsula State Fair which opens Monday morning, are going to find one of the most enjoyable features of Fair Week in Escanaba, the Escanaba Merchants' Hospitality Week which goes hand in hand with it.

Open house will be the rule at all Escanaba business places during the coming week and stores are combining their fair holiday spirit with advance showings of all that is beautiful and new for fall, arranged for the particular pleasure of the thousands of fair guests who are invited to visit the stores at any time they wish during the week to enjoy the autumn showings.

Perhaps the outstanding features of all merchandise as far as a general survey goes are unmistakable smartness, an air of style moderation and the increased value in both material and workmanship which is decidedly pleasant to contemplate.

Travel Prints

Every shop is showing the new travel crepes in charming tweed print combinations with coat or bolero effects. They are pretty, and of a material that does not wrinkle, are the most practical thing in the world for travel wear or for one item of wardrobe of the girl who is going away to school this fall.

A peasant frock of green lavishly embroidered in white wool, is in one store. And in the same place is a lovely dress coat of Burgundy with beautiful collar and cuffs of fox.

A black hat of Lyons velvet has a turn back brim, is small and close fitting, finished with a graceful bow.

In men's suits there are the popular browns, blues and greys, with two button coats and notch and peak lapels, and everything to complete the outfit, with as much attention to particular style and color combination as one finds in a woman's ensemble.

The young man who is traveling off to school this fall would find his interest centered in a Gladstone bag in one men's store, of brown cowhide, well finished and decidedly masculine.

Smart Shoes

A smart shoe, one of the prettiest you might find, is the new biege-clair three eyelet tie style in ring lizard, shown in one of the shoe shops. There are appliques of chocolate and Spanish brown calf and the heel is lizard covered. Along with this for the black ensemble is a four-tie black dull kid slipper, with black and white embossed ring lizard tongue and applique and pretty but comfortable Cuban heel. A beachnut brown kid slipper with beige underlay and a Cuban heel has graceful slender lines and a black dull kid with Hematite patent applique and gray python applique inlay, is another model.

One of the new fall dresses in one of the variety of browns which are favored for early autumn wear is of transparent velvet of maple brown, belted waistline and a dou[illegible] of harmonizing peach, shading to [illegible] Along with this is a brown velvet turban banded with silk tricot.

In one popular shoe shop, in which the keynote of fall showings is standard leathers, reptile trimmed, you will find a smart, graceful pump of Kangolo calfskin, trimmed in genuine python, long vamp style with French heel. This is black. Another high throated, one-strap center buckle model is of raisin brown Kangolo calf skin with a genuine python trim to match the body of the shoe. This has a French heel typical of the trend toward the extremely shaped French heel in dress shoes.

Green, Squirrel Trimmed

A new coat for fall in a woman's shop is of Receda green with jacket effect, and flare cuffs and short shawl collar of grey squirrel.

A loose weave wool suit in jungle green in another shop is attractive This is a three-piece suit with tuck-in blouse of eggshell crepe. In the same shop is an "angel-face" hat, of smart felt with the black pom pom trimming which is extremely good. A green silhouette coat, belted, with black Krimmer trim, is another charming piece of feminine adornment.

One of the larger stores is showing adorable suits for early fall wear, of Frisca, a lightweight woolen. These are one piece tailored dresses with cape or coat and beret of like material and they are in oxford, purples, browns and greens.

A cloth coat of thermo, which by the way is a new material, which like its name excludes either heat or cold as the seasons may furnish them, which make it an all-year-round coat is of dress, fitted and belted, with deep cuffs and collar of racoon. Another coat is of rich brown broadcloth, beaver trimmed, with flared lines.

One travel print, remarkably attractive, is of brown and orange print with tan crepe collar, orange stitched, and peplum waist line. A matching brown velvet turban with insets of contrasting embroidery, is in the same shop.

Children's coats in one shop are of Angora-pac, which looks much like [illegible]

tans, and there are matching berets. The sweater outfits which are popular the year round are shown in a variety of charming style and color.

Mahogany Brown

And to return to the men. A smart shop shows a suit of mahogany brown, two button coat and notched lapel of the hard, firm material which is replacing the softer materials in the newest suits. Along with this are the new hats in beaver finish in browns and lighter shades of tan which blend with the suits.

But start out on your fall display tour yourself. There are countless other items and you are going to find viewing the new showings a real pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gerou, Oldest Residents of Perkins are Observing Golden Wedding Anniversary Mon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gerou, Perkins' oldest residents, will on Monday, Aug. 18, renew the marriage vows which they took fifty years ago, at a golden wedding anniversary celebration in which family and friends will join in honoring them.

The renewal of wedding vows, the religious observance of the day, will take place at a high mass at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's church at Perkins, in the presence of their children, grand children and great grandchildren and friends from Perkins and neighboring communities. Rev. Father Consadine will officiate. The eldest daughter and son of the family, Mrs. Joseph Frossard and John Gerou Jr., will be the attendants.

Following the ceremony there will be a wedding breakfast for the wedding party only. At noon a wedding dinner for all members of the family, and immediate relatives will be served at the John Gerou Sr., home.

Large bouquets of golden glow and brown-eyed Susans will be used in the church decorations and cut flowers will be combined with streamers of gold and white at the home.

John Gerou was born at New Glasco, Province of Quebec, Canada, on January 15, 1859 and came to Perkins in 1878. Mrs. Gerou, who was Margaret Gerou before her marriage, was also born in New Glasco, on May 3, 1860, and she came to Perkins in 1880 to become the bride of Mr. Gerou. Their marriage took place at Rapid River, the late Rev. Father Charles Langier, first pastor of St. Patrick's church, performing the ceremony.

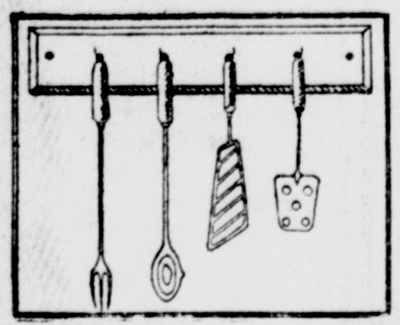
Twelve Children

Mr. and Mrs. Gerou have resided in Perkins continuously since their marriage and they are the oldest residents of the community. They are the parents of twelve children, all of whom are living with the exception of the late Mrs. George Besson Sr., whose death at the age of 44 occurring here on October 5, 1928, as the result of an automobile accident, was the first in the immediate family. The children are Mrs. Joseph Penton, Montreal, Canada; Mrs. Joseph Frossard, Mrs. Thomas Carmody, of Perkins; Mrs. Fred Minor of Osier; Peter, William and Archie Gerou of Racine, Wis.; Leo and Harry Gerou of Escanaba; Meddie Gerou of Green Bay, and John Jr., who makes his home at Perkins with his aged parents. Mr. and Mrs. Gerou also have twenty grand children and seven great grand children.

A Suggestion

You can make yourself a handy kitchen set rack by using a left-over piece of wood moulding and some brass screws from the corner store.

Nail the wood strip securely to the wall, at the right height and just as near your kitchen work table as you would find most convenient. Paint it to match the walls or to contrast, as you wish. On it you can hang your long-handled spoon, batter cake turner, mixing spoons and long fork, if you wish.



Church Events

Christian Science Churches

"Soul" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, August 17.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "With my soul have I desired thee in the night; yea, with my spirit within me will I seek thee early; for when thy judgements are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness" (Isa. 26:9).

The Lesson-Sermon includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and health with key to the scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit is eternal, divine. Nothing but spirit, soul, can evolve life, for spirit is more than all else. Because soul is immortal, it does not exist in mortality" (p. 335).

Book Survey

Writing a historical novel in which extremely familiar people and events are described is always hazardous. It becomes much more so when one of the famous people is the novelists central character.

Honore W. Morrow, however, does not seem to be afraid. In "The Last Full Measure" she concludes her trilogy of novels in which no less a person than Abraham Lincoln has the leading role. The task that she set herself when she began this trilogy had a great many pitfalls. I think she has dodged most of them very neatly.

"The Last Full Measure" covers the final months of Lincoln's life. Mrs. Morrow studies Lincoln during those dramatic moments when the Confederacy finally sank down to defeat and when he realized that having saved the Union he now faced the equally difficult task of providing for a sane, charitable reconstruction.

Side by side with this she traces the development of the plot which culminated in Ford's Theatre when John Wilkes Booth shot Lincoln. Booth is displayed in detail, as are most of the other characters in the plot. The portrayal of the two-thirds-mad actor is one of the strongest features of the book.

With Lincoln himself, Mrs. Morrow does at least as well as could be expected. Occasionally, when she presents his soliloquies and musings, I think she tackles something too big for her; for the most part, however, the job is well handled. An enormous amount of study must have gone into the writing of this book. The bibliography Mrs. Morrow presents is fairly amazing. "The Last Full Measure," if not a great book, will at least be extremely interesting to a great many people.

The book is offered by William Morrow and Co., and sells at $2.50.

"Portal To Romance"

"Sitka—Portal to Romance," contained a great deal of stuff that was entirely new, as far as I am concerned, and also a great deal that was highly enjoyable.

The author, Barrett Willoughby, has written a book in which she tries to convey the beauty, the glamour and the romance of this distant Alaskan city. Her account of Baranov, the hard-drinking, hard-fighting Russian governor who ruled in baronial state a century ago and dispensed justice, according to his lights, to the wild traders, hunters and adventurers who made up most of Alaska's inhabitants and visitors in those days, is especially good. She also has some interesting descriptions of the lawless days that followed the beginning of the American regime.

All in all, she makes Sitka sound just like what she calls it—"The Portal to Romance." If you like to read about distant places and romantic people, this book should please you very much.

The Houghton Mifflin Co. is selling it at $3.

Monotonous Sin

Andre Tellier describes the varied loves of an opera singer in "The Magnificent Sin," and for the first half of the book spins a diverting tale. However, even sin can get monotonous if it is repeated in the same key too long, and I bogged down and gave up the struggle a considerable distance from the end. Madame Carneau, the tempestuous heroine of the book was still sinning when I left her, and I presume she stayed on the job up to the end.

If you think you'd like a book with the title, "The Magnificent Sin," hop to it. However, it's apt to bore you before you get through with it.

GOLF COURSE OPENS TODAY

Tournament in Evening Feature of Grand Opening

Formal opening of the Merry Midget golf course located on Lake Shore Drive across from the Van Cleve tourist park will be held today.

The course has been built and installed by Arvid and Erling Arntzen of Escanaba, along plans formulated from ideas gathered in trips to numerous natural and individually built courses in Michigan and northern Wisconsin and incorporates a number of original features.

It is a full 18-hole course, able to accommodte 50 players at a time. Dog-leg and right angle fairways feature some of the holes while novel hazards tend to make others difficult for even a veteran. That the course is 'tough' is indicated by the fact that no one has been able to cover it in par, during several days of play previous to the formal opening.

A midget tournament will be staged during the evening and prizes will be awarded to the lowest scorer, both men and women, and also to each member of the foursome turning in the lowest total score.

Strings of flood lamps have been installed and the course will be lighted like day to provide for night play.

A refreshment stand has been erected near the No. 1 hole and a driveway and parking space around the course capable of accommodating over 100 autos.

Forest White of this city, is in charge of the course.

Entertains

Mrs. N. J. LaPine and Mrs. John Murdock entertained last night at a dinner at Peterson's Tea Room at Ford River in honor of Mrs. Thomas McGee who is leaving Wednesday of next week for Benton Harbor, Mich., to make her home.

Gladstone People Will Visit U. P. Fair On Wednesday

Wednesday has been proclaimed a holiday and to residents of this city it will be Gladstone Day at the third annual Upper Peninsula State Fair, all activity ceasing to allow the entire city to attend.

Mercantile houses, offices and shops as well as industrial plants will be closed all day Wednesday to allow the attendance of every employe.

The First National and the Gladstone State Banks have declared a half holiday and will close their doors at noon.

City offices, however, in accordance with Mayor Hawkin's proclamation and because of the fact that Wednesday is registration day, will close Monday noon and municipal employes will attend the fair for the opening day. State law requires the city office to remai nopen from eight a. m. to eight p. m. on Wednesday, Aug. 20, to allow registration of electors for the coming primary.

This year's show promises to b ethe highest and best in the state fair's history. The state conservation department's wonderful educational exhibit will again be displayed, as well as elaborate exhibits of the United States and state agricultural departments. A large exhibit depicting the upper peninsula's recreational, industrial, and agricultural features is also being installed by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau.

An all-star vaudeville program and fireworks display, such as never before offered or seen at the U. P. fair will also be presented.

Legion Will Elect Officers On Monday

Annual election of officers will be held by August Mattson Post, No. 71, American Legion, a ragular meeting Monday evening in the Legion hall, it was announced yesterday by William Green, commander. Other important business will be conducted at this time and it is urged that every member attend the session.

Miss Norma Acker of Rapid River is spending the week-end as the guest of Ruth Ward.

Final Meeting—Capt. E. J. Larson and Lieut. LeRoy Nelson will close their Salvation Army work in Gladstone this evening when they preside at a meeting to be held in the Army hall on Delta avenue. The final session will begin at eight o'clock.

Both Capt. Larson and Lieut. Nelson will leave tomorrow for other cities, the former being transferred to Red Oak, Ia., where he will have charge of a post and the latter to Muskegon, Mich., to assist in S. A. work there.

THEATRES

RIALTO

Singing and dancing are said to play an important part in "Children of Pleasure," M-G-M's all talking adaptation of Crane Wilbur's stage hit. "The Song Writer." Among those who will contribute to either the vocal or terpischorean end of the production now showing at the Rialto theatre, are Lawrence Gray, last seen and heard in the Duncan Sisters comedy "It's a Great Life," Wynne Gibson and Helen Johnson imported to Hollywood from the New York stage; May Boley, erstwhile vaudeville headliner; Benny Rubin, Kenneth Thomson and Lee Kohlmar.

The story, which rumor has it, was inspired by the romance of Irving Berlin, concerns a successful Broadway song writer who is about to marry a society girl when he discovers at the dress rehearsal of their wedding that the girl considers the matter in the light of an "experiment." The picture contrasts the life of the debutante with that of the Tin Pan Alley song plugger revealing the almost insurmountable barrier of class distinction between the two.

Leonard Erickson, New York City, is arriving Monday to visit for two weeks at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Erickson.

BRAVES LEAD JUNIOR LEAGUE

Play Escanaba Champions on Local Diamond Tuesday

Adding another victory to their list the Braves continued to lead the Gladstone junior diamond ball league with a perfect average. To date they have annexed three victories and have kept their defeat column unblemished.

Tuesday afternoon here they will play the Northsiders, champions of the Escanaba junior league, and later in the week will play a return game with the same team on the Escanaba diamond. Two other games between consolation round winners of the two cities are also being arranged.

Pounding out a 24 to 3 victory over the Cards yesterday afternoon the Cubs went into a tie for third place in the league race. Neveaux on the mound for the Cubs held the Cards scoreless until the last frame when they shoved across their only scores of the game. The bruin sluggers hit McGee hard and scored in every inning but the fifth.

Free ice cream, pop, candy and souveniers will be furnished to the children and there will be pipes and tobacco for the men and chewing gum for the women.

Transportation is being furnished all who wish to attend but lack means of getting to the picnic site.

U. P. Briefs

Blister Rust Campaign

Iron Mountain — More than 1,200 black currant bushes have been eradicated during the last few weeks in Dickinson county by a crew of four men from the Michigan State college, East Lansing, under the supervision of John Kroeber, of Lansing, member of the Michigan state department of agriculture.

The work will be completed here this week, according to Kroeber, and the men will begin next week to remove the currant bushes in Menominee county.

The state passed a law authorizing removal of the black currant and wild gooseberry and currant bushes because of the damage they do to the white pine forests by playing hosts to the spores which cause white pine blister rust.

Nurse Is Engaged

Iron Mountain—Lillie Johnson Bandt, formerly school nurse in the city and recently employed in public health work in Decatur, Ill., has been engaged as Dickinson county nurse by a combined committee representing the Dickinson county Red Cross chapter and the county Anti-Tuberculosis society.

The employment of Mrs. Bandt is the culmination of more than two years' effort on the part of officers and members of both groups to put the nurse on duty in the county. Always in the past some obstruction has arisen to bar the move. Mrs. Bandt has already started her work.

Will Appeal Case

Menominee—The board of review has decided to appeal the Commercial bank case, decided against the city by Judge Frank A. Bell in circuit court recently, and city taxes are being spread to include the $97,000 bank assessment in the roll. The assessment is being checked and issuance of tax statements will start Saturday. It is expected the statements will be ready for mailing within 10 days.

Woman, Child Found

Houghton — After spending Wednesday night in the woods, Mrs. Walter G. Anderson and little son, Freddie, were discovered early Thursday morning by a party of searchers who had set out in search of the pair after they failed to return to their home. The two, with a dog had gone in search of lost cows.

When found the mother and child, with the dog as their only companion, were seated about a small fire built by Mrs. Anderson after she had discovered her plight.

Lady Broadcast Is Hawthorne Winner

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP) — Lady Broadcast, speedy four-year-old filly owned by Rogers Caldwell, Nashville, Tenn., banker, popped out of a field to win the Men's Handicap, with $10,000 added at Hawthorne today, before a crowd of 20,000 race enthusiasts.

My Dandy, owned by the Reichert brothers of Belleville, Ill., and coupled with Brown Wisdom in the betting, finished six lengths back in second place, with Uncommon Gold, a field horse, third. Isiam, another field horse, was fourth. Trailing behind these leaders were such stars as Victorian, Brown Wisdom, Display, Pigeon Hole, Gallahad, Silverdale, Paul Bunyan and Beaming Over.

GIANT THERMOMETER.

London—The largest thermometer in the world is thought to be that on a 60-foot tower recently erected at Chriswick. The scale of the thermometer is 7 feet wide and the length well over 20 feet. It can be seen for quite a distance. A barometer combined with it enables travelers on trains close by to judge weather conditions.

CITY BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Poitras and daughters Ethel and Joyce and Theodore Feldt of Painted Post, N. Y., are arriving today by motor to visit for two weeks at the home of August Feldt.

Georgia Zinke of Marquette is expected to arrive today to visit for several weeks with Helen Erickson.

Claire Clark will return from Milwaukee where she spent the past week. She will be accompanied by Maxine Fraser of Milwaukee, who will be a guest for a while at the C. A. Clark home.

Mrs. Leo Rouman and son George left Friday for Sudbury, Canada, where they will visit with relatives for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis DeFrain and son Donald of East Tawas, Mich., are spending a few days here as guests at the G. E. Laidlaw home.

Miss June Shively of Faithorn is visiting here as a guest at the S. J. Sword home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller and two children Arlene and Marilyn Mae left Saturday for their home in Flint after visiting for two weeks at the F. M. Artley home.

Donald Borchert, Nels Aplegren and William Wright are spending a week on Day River camping.

Garland Nia and Lawrence Swan have returned from a 5-day camping trip at Au Train Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Holman, Stevens Point, Wis., arrived terday to visit at the S. J. Holman company.

Mrs. T. W. McDonough and son Francis, Lakeland, Fla., former residents of this city, visited in Gladstone for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Amo, have returned to their home in Detroit after visiting for several days at the J. D. McDonald home.

SAFETY RECORD

London—Two street car motormen here have an inviable safety record. C. J. Grantham holds the record for having piloted his car for 12 years and 250,000 miles without an accident. T. W. Manley has driven 10 years and 200,000 miles without an accident.

Press Reporter Sees Falls From Airplane

BY MARJORIE H. MORRILL

Newberry, Aug. 16 (Special)—There are beautiful designs upon this earth. We get small notions of them from some high place such as a hill top or a fire tower. But the true beauty of pattern upon the world can only become fully known by examining a country from an airplane.

Now take the Tahquamenon. Living beside it for years we know and love each turn and lovely bend, each wide opening of shadowed waters, each passing shadow of moving cloud. But on Friday as the guest of pilot Clyde Lee riding in his six panssenger Stinson-Detroiter we were given the wider view of this beautiful valley.

Raising like a wild goose against the wind we circled over the Sage swamp where the big fire has been sweeping through the tamarack slashing for a week and where white whisps of smoke still curled, we passed over this desolate place into a country of varied greens. Swamps are bright in gamboge and burnt sienna but always with the green overwash. Their design is curved here and there still little spruces grouped on some higher point or placed along a low ridge for contrast. A whole little river system is spread out in them often ending with a small silver pond in the center.

The soft woods are darker, an almost uniform blue-green. The hardwoods—and they appear to be much more common, are like a carpet of soft greens, a sort of blurred and yet distinct pattern of rounded figures on a brown-green background.

Smoke from Seney-way obscured the western sky. Off to the north was old Superior, a misty purple with pearl-grey veils over it. Two small wisps of smoke showed about where the headwaters of the river must be located. Off towards Strongs and Eckerman were other fires, wide-sweeping banners of pearl-grey shot with rose. Puff-balls of smoke also were formed over the trees somewhere near Shelldrake.

But Tahquamenon held the center of our interest. Winding back and forth through its wide valley it made a deep-gold band edged in places with white. Here and there it was bordered with scalloped silvery lines where little channels were curved through the reeds of its shores. Or a whole system of little streams like a tiny branch with twigs were attached to it. Lakes, dozens of them from mere silver ponds to the wide reach of Lake Betsy were laid like mirrors in the green. The river swamp appeared to be in one with that of the Lake Betsy region. We could see only one place on its shore where high ground met the water and that was on the extreme eastern end.

At the islands the river was lovely. Here it was curved into two graceful bends each one crooked lovingly about a jewel of an island. Wide shore sand of gold, or perhaps it was yellow flowering swamp growth outlined the inner curves. We knew that the big falls were only four miles away. In about that many minutes we saw them.

A jewel, shining and alive in a beautiful setting are the Falls of the Tahquamenon as seen from the air. A climax episode in a pageant of beauty. The animation needed to complete the picture. It seemed strange to see them and not hear their deep songs. But the glint of the fall of golden water, the gracious curve of the cataract were there before our eyes, properly reduced so that they could all be taken in at once. We had seen the falls now both "by" and "large." Which view is the better is hard to say. Best to have both.

We looked and looked as the plaine circled. Water sparkled in the deep plunge basin and long whisps of white foam drifted off through the gorge. A couple of miles above Joe Beach's boat was moving slowly. We wondered if they noticed us. Off to the east was Whitefish bay and boats on its calm surface.

Back up we circled. Old right-of-ways were laid straight through the forest showing where logging roads once ran. Old trails and winter roads, now almost grown over, looked like a line of quilting in the coverlid of green. Away to the south was the shining bright silver of the big Seney ditch like a straight bar of metal. The railroad was a long straight white line. For a few minutes we were in a cloud of smoke from forest fires. Then we were through it and banked above the highway, and there was home coming rapidly to meet us.

We have an idea now how the old tapestries of ancient days came to be planned. Some artist, longing for higher things and being tired of the earth, sought a castle tower or climbed to a mountain peak. Seeing the beautiful design the earth made he re-loved it and came down to weave it into a pattern for low-living people to wonder at.

HITCH-HIKER STEALS

To give a hitch-hiker a six hundred mile ride and then have him swipe suitcases and cash was the experience of Harold Fortna of Womelsdorf, Pa., who has veen visiting Charles Beaulieu at his home here. Fortna was driving from his home to Marquette and had tire trouble on the outskirts of Pittsburgh. The hiker came along and offered to help with the repair after which Fortna offered him a ride. Somewhere in Ohio more tire trouble developed and the young man opened his suit case to get at his money to pay for a new inner tube.

The hiker said he was going to Flint and Fortna offered to take him to his door. When they arrived in that city Fortna went into a restaurant to get a meal but the hiker refused to eat with him saying he had accepted enough. However, he offered to stay in the car and see that no one took anything. When his benefactor came out all of his baggage was missing. About $90 in cash, two new suits, a half dozen shirts which had just been purchased and other articles were lost.

JAIL BREAKER CAUGHT

State police arrested Arthur Dunlap, alias Arthur Mayhew on the berry plains near Sheldrake on Friday and are holding him for Detroit officers on the charge of stealing a car in Detroit on April 3 of this year. According to the records the car was taken to Alden, Mich., where it was sold to a man named Jack Smith who later became suspicious and traced it back to its owner. The downstate officers could not locate it nor Dunlap and the insurance company paid for the loss.

Dunlap has been in trouble before. Hheld in the St. Ignace jail on a minor charge he escaped twice and was listed as a fugitive from justice on February 10, 1928 He was captured and served fifteen months in Jackson. Corp. Don Hoadley made the arrest.

MRS. CANDERLIN DIES

Mrs. John Sanderlin, the mother of a large family living in Lakefield township died at the University hospital from cancer on afternoon of August 15 a few hours after she had been admitted for treatment. The body is being returned here for burial. Funeral arrangments have not yet been made.

POLICE GET CARS

Six new automobiles for U. P. state police arrived in Newberry on Friday afternoon in exchange for six old ones which have been turned in to Lansing headquarters. The new cars are olive green in color and marked plainly on doors and back in white letters, "Michigan State Police." Only one will be kept here, two went to Marquette and three to the Iron Mountain posts. Troopers from these posts have driven down to get them.

Mushroom-Like Growth Shown At Port Inland

Springing into being like Jack the Giant Killer's beanstalk, Port Inland, the site of the Inland Lime and Stone company's limestone quarry project, is rapidly assuming the finished form of one of the country's greatest limestone plants. Upwards of 400 men, directed by some of the best engineering brains in the United States, are working from early morn to late at night to provide this mushroom-like growth. Assurance is given by those in charge that the plant will be fully complete by this fall.

Electrification of the railroad which will be used to haul stone from the quarry to the primary crusher a distance of seven miles, is about 75 per cent complete and will be ready about the middle of September. The Needham Electric company of Escanaba is in charge of this work. The first electric locomotive is scheduled to arrive on August 25. Poley Bros., of Minneapolis, completed the sand fill for the 36 foot trestle last Saturday.

The 60-inch primary gyrator crusher, which was built by the Allis-Chamler company of Milwaukee, will arrive Monday. This huge piece of mechanism will be able to take a slab of limestone five by nine feet and has a capacity of 3500 tons per hour.

Four Tunnels Ready

Giant stackers, which look like immense cranes elevated on wheels, will be used to pile the crushed limestone on the docks ready for loading into the large ore steamers. The crushed stone will be carried on belt conveyors to the stackers, which can pile the stone to a height of 65 feet. Four of the six tunnels through which the crushed stone will be carried to the dock, have already been completed. The dock was finished ten days ago. It is 1000 feet long and 600 feet wide with a storage capacity of 150,000 tons of stone. Three hundred and fifty thousand cubic yards of dirt was pumped out of the harbor to make the dock fill. Officials state that all concrete will have been poured by September 15.

All construction work on the Grizzly Roll house, the screening plant and the secondary crusher has been completed, and with the installation of proper equipment will be ready for operation. This work is being done by Worden-Allen company, Milwaukee. The sub-station, which was constructed by W. E. McDonald, Escanaba, is rapidly nearing completion with the putting on of the roof by Moersch and Degnan, also of Escanaba. This building will house the motor-generator sets for the electric railroad and distributor switches for the plant.

Drill at Quarry

Two Armstrong well drills are now drilling at the quarry in preparation for the operation of the 170-B electric shovel. The shovel is a product of the Bucyrus Erie company of South Milwaukee and will be ready for operation on August 25, this shovel has caterpillar traction and a 5 yard dipper.

A lighthouse has been constructed at the end of the breakwater, but no lighting equipment has been installed as yet. The steamer Fontana, owned by the Construction Materials company, was the second boat in the history of Port Inland to dock at the harbor. It arrived Saturday with a 4200 ton cargo of sand and gravel from Grand Haven, Micn.

Dorothy Shipman to Return from Abroad

Dorothy Shipman, labrarian at the city and high school library, who has been on a six-week trip to Europe, sailed a week ago Saturday from France and is expected to return home the first part of this week. Mrs. Ada Watson and Mrs. Jennie Putnam, also on trips abroad, are expected to land in this country soon.

Mrs. Shipman is returning on the steamer Empress of Scotland and will land in Quebec. She will return to this city directly from Quebec.

FAVORITES WIN IN 2ND ROUND

Eight Winners Compete This Week in Handicap Tourney

With the completion of the second round of the Indian lake golf club handicap tournament today, the large field of contestants narrowed down to eight. Despite the handicaps which had to be surmounted by the skilful, all of the favorites in the second round were victorious. Up until Friday evening six of the eight matches had been played with the other two scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

The third round of the tourney will begin Monday and will be concluded on Saturday August 23. The next round will be played during the following week. Finals will be held on Wednesday September 3. All matches are being played over 18 holes while the finals will be decided in a 36 hole match.

Results of the second round are as follows:

Tom Mulrooney won from Boyd Bolitho, 3 to 2.

A. F. Hall defeated J. J. Munger, 1 up (36th hole).

R. L. Prine defeated Dr. A. R. Tucker, 4 to 3.

Ben Hudson won from Vern Smith, 2 up.

Jack Quick defeated Frank Lied, 3 to 2.

C. W. Field won from Tom Bolitho, 2 up.

Matches to be played are H. J. Gustafson vs. Theron Southard; and A. W. Cookson vs. W. S. Crowe.

THEATRES

Before starting work on his latest picture, "The New Movietone Follies of 1930," spectacular musical romance coming soon to the Gero theatre, Brendel made a personal appearance in St. Louis.

He was met at the railroad station with a band of 100 pieces. City officials battled for seats in his limousine. An army of theatre employees attended to his baggage and thousands of persons cheered him at the station.

"I felt like I had skidded off the earth and onto another planet," Brendel recounted later. "It seemed more like a dream that so many people were interested in me."

Milwaukee Journal Carries Article On Civil War Veteran

The many friends of the late Edward R. Buckley, both here and at Nahma, will be interested in the following article concerning him taken from the Milwaukee Journal. Mr. Buckley's death was announced in the Tuesday's issue of this paper. The article is as follows:

"Another of the oldest Civil war veterans at the national soldiers' home, Edward Buckley, 95, died Friday at the general hospital there after a long illness. He had been living at the home 13 years, and before becoming ill was a resident of Company 8, one of the last two remaining Civil war divisions at the home.

"Mr. Buckley was reserved and not much was learned of his Civil war record. He was a native of Ohio enlisting in November, 1861, at Worthington, Ohio, in Company G, 46th Ohio infantry. He served throughout the war and was not discharged until three months after Lee-s surrender.

"For many years after the war, Mr. Buckley lived at Nahma, Michigan. He is survived only by a brother, James B. Buckley, Manistique, Michigan.

"Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at the national home chapel. Burial will be in the cemetery at the ground."

Forest Fires Are Investigated By State Fire Warden

State Fire Warden Sayres, of Lansing, in company with District Fire Warden Richard Beach and Julius Thorson, both of Newberry, were in the city Saturday while on a tour of inspection throughout the county investigating the extent of the forest fires which prevailed last week.

As the wardens had not as yet finished their reports no figures were available as to the extent or damage of the fires in this county. It is believed, however, that damages are not as severe as first reported.

Rubich-Strubel

Miss Anna Rubich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rubich, Cedar street, and John Strubel, Chivago, were united in marriage at eight o'clock yesterday morning. The ceremony was performed at the St. Francis de Sales church with Rev. Fr. Schevers as celebrant.

The attendants were the Misses Bertha Simonich, Escanaba, Mary Maglich, Eveleth, Minn., Katherine Rogich, Gladstone, John Turk, Tony ime, Chicago, and Sylvester Sablack.

The bride was attired in a gown of white satin and wore a veil of white tulle. She carried a shower bouquet of mixed flowers.

Her attendants wore gowns of pastel shades and also carried bouquets of mixed flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Strubel will leave this week for Chicago to spend a week before going to Duluth, Minn., to make their home.

A wedding dinner was served last evening at the home of the bride's parents. Guests at the dinner and dance which followed included friends from Marquette, Gladstone, Escanaba, and Engadine.

Through sound reflectors recently installed, 25,000 persons can hear a pin drop on the stage of the Hollywood bowl.

COMMERCIAL FISHING

FORTY-FIVE men and seven boats from Manistique are engaged in the fishing industry. The season lasts nine months and during that time they make daily week-day trips of sixteen to thirty-five miles, laying 5½ miles of gill nets daily, each 540 feet long and sunk to the very bottom with buoys on each end of the gang to mark their positions. The depth varies from 96-240 feet depending upon the phase of the moon—the new moon is best for whitefish fishing. As it brightens, the nets are placed in deeper water, following the slopes of the irregular lake bottom. Sixty-four nets are lifted daily and each boat lifts on an average of 700 pounds of fish. Whitefish run as high as 7 lbs. and trout to 40 lbs., and these larger fish are in particular demand for city hotels and restaurants. Most of the fish taken are iced and shipped to Chicago or New York the same day. Isaac Goodreau and his men fishing near Manistique use pond or trap nets. These are fastened to stakes, machinery driven into the lake bottom at 45-48 feet depth. The fish are trapped alive and as high as 3,200 lbs. have been taken in a day. The largest local concern is the Coffey Fishing Company, in business nearly 60 years. Their original sail-boat has been supplanted by 50-ton tugs, the Annabell II and the Alice C. Only two steam tugs are left at the port, the rest are Diesels. Fishermen planted twelve million baby trout this season, experts taking the eggs and shipping them to hatcheries. Eighty-five percent have lived, the highest record of the state. Half-inch fry are returned, taken out a half mile from the dock and dumped unceremoniously three million at a time. In addition to the Coffey Fishing Company, there are several other local fishermen, including William Sellman organization; Sig. Paulsen and others.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY,
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Aug. 16. (AP)—The stock market resisted a fresh bear onslaught today, despite reactionary tendencies in the grain and cotton markets.

Prices fluctuated erratically in light and highly professional trading. During the early trading, prices reacted sharply from the high levels reached in Friday's bear squeeze, but a brisk rally soon set in. The trend was turned again in the final transactions, however, and many gains lost.

Closing quotations in most important stocks were not more than a point on either side of the previous day's final levels. The price index of 90 leading shares showed a net decline for the day of only 2-5 of one point. The index of 20 rails, taken separately, showed a gain of ¾. Total sales were 974,970 shares.

An unsettling development of the day was fresh weakness in cotton, which broke about $1.50 a bale to new low levels. Grains reacted moderately, reflecting further rains, and failure of the Liverpool market to follow recent advances in wheat. Corn and wheat futures each lost more than a cent a bushel.

Short Covering.

There was considerable short covering in the rails, which was not completed yesterday. The coalers were notably firm, as the seasonal movement of coal should help earnings in the latter months of the year.

Since the bears have been unable to extend the decline after Tuesday's break, there has been a considerable switching to the bull side on the part of professional traders anxious for action.

The day's news shed little light on the business trend. Reports from the Youngstown area indicate that further reductions in steel mill activity are not contemplated, but sentiment in the steel trade has become a little gloomy.

Bankers felt that credit would continue plentiful next week, although there was no call money market which to gauge the trend. The French franc was a shade lower, suggesting that the outflow of gold may have been checked. Sterling cables held at $4.87 1-8. The Spanish peseta was under further pressure, reaching a new 1930 low.

New York, Aug. 16. (AP)—Operations of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. and the Carnegie Steel Co., plants in the Youngstown district will remain unchanged during the coming week at 55 per cent of rated capacity.

The American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., will start operations of its ten hot mills of the Dover, Ohio, works Monday, employing approximately 700 men, against a capacity of 800 men. Only six mills have been operated for some time. The Chester, W. Va., plant is to resume operations next week after having been idle for more than a month.

Negotiations are reported nearing completion for the use of the eastern portion of the Buckeye Pipe Line Co., system by the Gulf Oil Corp. It is understood that the line will be used in connection with a Gulf Oil line which will extend from Glenpool, Okla., to new refineries to be constructed by Gulf at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh and will forward crude oil to the Toledo refinery of the Paragon Refinery Co., acquired by Gulf. Gulf officials said they were not in a position to discuss details of the transaction.

Domestic production of refined lead in July amounted to 51,538 short tons, compared with 50,721 in June and 59,155 in July last year. The American bureau of metal statistics reports. Stocks at the end of July totaled 63,880 tons, against 55,501 at the end of June and 49,638 at the end of May.

BY DONALD C. BOLLES.
(Associated Press Financial Writer.)

New York, Aug. 16. (AP)—Railroad bonds further profited today from a steady inquiry which has been a feature of trading this week on the New York stock exchange. Another group of new 1930 highs were registered by carrier obligations including several market leaders.

Trading was rather quiet during the half day session with a firm trend maintained. Utilities did no more than hold their gains of previous days of the week. The meager sales of foreign dollar bonds were mostly at a small premium over the previous day's final figures. United States governments were inactive and steady.

The demand for carrier obligations was strong. The day's crop of new highs included such active issues as Union Pacific 1st 4s, Pennsylvania debenture 4½s, Southern Pacific Warrant 4½s, Chesapeake and Ohio General 4½s and Refunding 4½s, Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s, and Big Four 4½s.

Best gains in the utility group were made by New Orleans Public Service 5s and Public Service Electric and Gas 4½s, the latter reaching a new year's peak. General Cable 5½s were weak. American Telephone issues were active and firm.

Turnover of foreign issues was unusually small. The best demand was for German 5½s which gained 3-8. Standard European governments were unchanged. Some South American showed strength on thin sales, notably Argentine 6s of Feb. 1961, Argentine 5s, Brazilian Central Railway 7s, Chile 7s, Colombia Mortgage Bank 7s and Buenos Aires 6s.

For killing small game a gun has been invented that uses compressed air to fire small shells that are filled with shot or slugs.

Vacuum cups are used with a crane in a German industrial plant to handle non-magnetic metal plates.

RADIO

New York, Aug. 16. (AP)—An hour's broadcast from the Knights of Columbus convention at Boston is to be made by the Columbia Broadcasting system tomorrow.

Starting at 4 p. m. (EST), it will consist of addresses and selections by a 22-piece orchestra, a chorus of 150 men's voices and a male octet. Speakers are to be William Cardinal Connell, Mayor James J. Curley of Boston and Martin H. Carmody, supreme knight of the organization.

Broadcasting is to play an important part in the start of the women's air derby from Los Angeles to Chicago tomorrow, when the report of a gun is fired 2,000 miles away in the studios of WBBM, Chicago, and transmitted over the CBS network.

The firing of the gun by Major Reed Landis will be the signal for the fliers to take off. It will be heard at the Los Angeles field through loud speakers.

The program, in which there will be a short speech by Major R. W. Schroeder, former holder of the world's altitude record, is to be presented from 6:30 to 6:35, p. m., taking the first five minutes of the regularly scheduled Round Towners.

Peter De Rose will present several of his own compositions in the Metropolitan Ehcoes program, WEAF and National Broadcasting chain, at 1 p. m.

While Ann Leaf, CBS organist heard in daily programs, is on a vacation her sister Esther will be at the console.

The guest conductor of the National High School orchestra, playing in the Theater of the Air, CBS and stations at 8 p. m., will be Lee Lockhart, supervisor of instrumental music in Pittsburgh.

James Melton, tenor of the Revelers, who has just recovered from an illness, will sing two Romberg compositions as soloist in the Hale Hour concert, WEAF and chain, at 8:15 p. m.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Corn traders fizzled in attempts made today to hoist the corn market regardless of moisture downpours in various parts of the drought region. Furthermore, something of a rout for friends of higher prices followed an official forecast indicating that corn belt weather next week promised to be damp and rather warm, conditions helpful to the crop where damage was not irreparable. Wheat followed the setbacks of corn values, and also was influenced by bearish reports of friction between the Canadian growers' pool and the Canadian banks.

Closing quotations on corn were nervous 1 to 2 cents a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Wheat closed 1 5-8 to 2¼ cents down, oats ½ to 7-8 cents off, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents decline.

Lowest prices of the day in the corn market and in wheat as well were reached just before the close. The bottom level for corn was 2 5-8 cents under the top point registered early during an aggressive buying movement.

Augmented arrivals of corn at all primary terminals added to the late downward impetus of the corn market. It was shown that primary receipts of corn today were nearly double those of a week ago and were decidedly more than a year ago, with the comparison similar for this week as a whole against last week and last year.

Wheat values here proved especially sensitive to downturns of wheat quotations at Winnipeg and also reflected the circumstance that the Liverpool wheat market made little response to advances scored yesterday on this side of the Atlantic.

Provisions although advancing early on account of a decrease in Chicago stocks of lard, receded later as a result of selling to realize profits.

Closing indemnities: Wheat Sept. 86⅛, 91 3-8; Dec. 91 3-8 to 5-8, 96½ to 3-8; March, 96½, 1.01; May 99 3-4, 1.04¼; Corn Sept. 94 3-4, 1.00½; Dec. 89 7-8, 95¼ to 5-8; March, 92½, 97 3-4; May 95, 1.00

CHICAGO LARD.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Cash Lard 10.90.

BEARS HALTED ON CURB MART

New York, Aug. 16. (AP)—Curb stocks closed steady to firm today after a two hour session in which the bearish element made a vain attempt to start a fresh decline in utility shares. Transactions aggregated only 251,700 shares.

Most of the day's business centered in favored utility issues and one or two others in the miscellaneous list. Fluctuations for the most part were extremely narrow. Following the late rally of the previous day, profit taking appeared at the outset but the selling was well absorbed at a point or less below the previous close and with a few notable exceptions the list held steady throughout the rest of the session.

Ford of England moved within a narrow groove and lost only 3-8 of a point. A flurry of selling sent American Cyanamid B down 1 3-8. Warner Brothers Rights, admitted to trading yesterday swelled the day's volume by 50,000. Most of the sales were at 1¼, with the close at 1 3-8, investment and holding company stocks were dull.

Some wire changes occurred in the miscellaneous and specialty group. Trans Lux was active and gained 1½. Lehigh Coal and Navigation rose 2½, and Aluminum company of America 1½.

CHICAGO BUTTER.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—The butter market ruled steady to unchanged in the usual quiet Saturday trading session.

Fresh— Score 93, 39 to 39½; 92, 38½; 91, 37½; 90, 37; 89, 36; 88, 35; 87, 34.

Centralized—90 score 38½; 89, 37½; 88, 35½.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN.

Minneapolis, Aug. 16.—Flour unchanged. Shipments 39,534. Bran unchanged.

Wheat No. 1 Northern 87 3-4 to 90 3-4; No. 1 Red Durum 73 7-8 to 74 7-8; Sept. 87 3-4; Dec. 91 7-8.

Corn No. 3 Yellow 95½ to 96½.

Oats No. 3 White 35¼ to 36¼.

CHICAGO POTATOES.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Potatoes 96, on track 185, total U. S. shipments 582; weak, trading fair; sacked Irish Cobblers, Wisconsin, mostly 1.75; Missouri 1.60 to 1.75; Nebraska 1.75 to 1.85; New Jersey 1.80 to 1.90; Minnesota Sacked Early Ohio's 1.45 to 1.55.

Great Golf Stars To Play In Detroit

Detroit, Aug. 16 (AP)—The brightest stars in golfdom's firmament will begin showering on Detroit tomorrow for the greatest golf show Michigan has been offered since Cyril Walker won the national open at Oakland Hills in 1924.

Outstanding players from all sections of the country have signified their intentions of competing in the western open championship, to be played over the rugged hills of Indianwood's course Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

There is but one glaring deficiency on the entry list to differentiate it from a typical national open schedule of entrants. That is the absence of Robert Tyre Jones, the greatest of them all, and even he may be present, in the capacity of newspaper writer.

AW, THE POOR THINGS

London—Peter Freeman, member of hard-hearted Parliament, complains about the inhuman killing of lobsters when they are prepared for food. He says that he has heard lobsters groan after being thrust into boiling water in restaurant kitchens. He advocates a more merciful killing of these edibles.

Berlin—The German Federal Railway is known as the world's biggest innkeeper. It controls more than 3000 station restaurants, and rules the prices, the types of service and quality of the food. A bill of fare is checked over for the entire chain of restaurants once a week by Herr Privy Councilor F. Pischel.

First Round of City Diamond Ball Meet Today

ALL GAMES AT NORTHWESTERN

Stogies to Match Bats With Wells Plant at 10:30 in Opener

In the first round of the city championship diamond ball tournament, eight teams representing the best in three leagues will meet at the Northwestern diamond today. The four winners of today's games will play in the second round next Sunday morning with the championship final scheduled for the afternoon.

The tournament will swing into actual play at 10:30 this morning, with the Stogies, defending champions, opposing the Wells Plant. This game will be one of the features of the day as the teams finished their American league season in a tie for second place. The Stogies, always ranked as a good tournament team, will be without the services of Bill Puckelwartz who played a big part in enabling the Stogies to break into the qualifiers for the city championship meet. It is the only game scheduled in the morning.

The afternoon games will be started at two o'clock with the league champion Phillies opposing the Store Department, one of the two teams which holds a victory over the Phils during the regular season play. The winner of this game will be picked by local followers to march through the tournament to the city championship.

Two National Teams

The fifth American league team to qualify for the tournament—the Knights of Columbus—will meet the Night Owl league champions—the Daily Press Nonpareils—at 3:30 this afternoon. The game brings together for the first time this season a Night Owl team and an American league team and thereby gives local fans an opportunity to determine the relative strength of the two leagues. Perryman, top notch hurler of the Night Owl loop, for the Press team, will be opposed by Ed Hirn, stellar Kaysee twirler.

By the luck of the draw, the co-champs of the National league were picked to oppose each other in the last game of the first round which will begin at five o'clock. They are the E. & L. S. and the Newsprints, teams which finished their fourteen-game league schedule with one defeat each, incidentally scored in a split of the two games played by the lineups during the regular season. This game is considered a "blood battle" and besides sending one of the teams into the second round, it will also unofficially place the winning combination into undisputed possession of league championship.

The winner of the city championship will be awarded a silver loving trophy donated by Attorney McGinn and Doctor Gordon Gleich.

Giants Close In On Brooklyn By Winning 2 Games

Cincinnati. Aug. 16 (AP)—The New York Giants cleaned up their final series in Cincinnati today by defeating the Reds in both games of a double header, 9 to 1 and 3 to 2.

The double victory enabled the Giants to gain a full game on the Brooklyn Robins, who divided their twin bill with Pittsburgh, and placed them only a half game behind the second place club.

The first game was settled in the opening inning when eleven men went to bat, eight of them hit and seven scored. Hughey Critz led this assault by hitting a triple and a double in his two times up. The Reds could make no progress against Fred Fitzsimmons, getting only five hits.

The second game was a close struggle between Jim Chaplin and Benny Frey, the Reds had a 10-7 margin in the hitting and had two men on base when the game ended but Chaplain proved a bit stronger in the pinches and got the decision.

First game:

New York 700 100 010—9 14 0
Cincinnati 100 000 000—1 5 3

Fitzsimmons and Hogan; Kolp, Ash and Sukeforth.

Second game:

New York 100 101 000—3 7 1
Cincinnati 002 000 000—2 10 0

Chaplain and O'Farrell; Frey and Gooch, Sukeforth.

Brooklyn Splits Two With Pirates

Pittsburgh, Aug. 16 (AP)—The Brooklyn Robins failed to gain at Pittsburgh's expense in the National League pennant struggle as they divided the double-header which opened their series here today. Brooklyn won the first game, 7 to 5, but the Pirates reversed the decision in the second by a 6 to 2 count.

First Game:		R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	300 040 000—	7	8	0
Pittsburgh	202 000 100—	5	11	1

Batteries: Elliott, Moss, Clarke and Lopez; Wood, Walter and Hemsley.

Second Game:		R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	000 000 002—	2	8	1
Pittsburgh	020 200 02x—	6	11	1

Batteries: Thurston, Elliott and Lopez; Kremer and Hemsley.

CLIFF CAESAR WILL REFEREE

Canadian Sports Writer to Handle Bouts at Coliseum

Refereeing the fight card at the Coliseum, August 21 will be Cliff Caesar, well known Canadian sports writer and referee who has lately moved his home across the boundary line to become a resident of the United States.

Caesar has achieved a good deal of fame arbitrating in many lines of sports having officiated during the past five years as a boxing referee, a hockey referee, a baseball umpire, and a football referee.

Having played with the Sault Greyhounds when they won the world's amateur hockey championship in 1925, Caesar was unanimously appointed a O. H. A. referee when he retired from playing. With hockey refereeing for the winter, he occupies his summers with baseball umpiring and fight refereeing while in the fall he handles football games.

Holding a Michigan state referees license, Caesar has been officiating at all the fights Frank Parker has promoted this season. He has gained a reputation in the upper peninsula as a square dealer in the ring due to his decisions which miraculously meet the approval of 99 per cent of the crowd.

Seats Being Sold At Coliseum Office For Fight Program

Seats are now on sale at the Coliseum box office for the big boxing show which will be held in Escanaba on Thursday, August 21, when Len Darcy will meet Frankie Clore in the headline bout.

Frank Parker, Sault Ste. Marie fight promoter, was in the city yesterday, making arrangements for the fight program.

BEATS BOWERS IN SEMI-FINAL

And Then Trims Janson Four and Three in Title Match

Ironwood, Aug. 16 (Special)—Displaying a remarkable comeback after trailing William Bowers of Houghton, five down on the eleventh hole, Alex Jolly, Jr., of Menominee upset tournament dope to trim Bowers on the eighteenth green in the morning and then went out to defeat "Shakes" Janson in the afternoon, four up and three to go, to wi nthe upper peninsula golf championship at the Gogebic county course here today. Janson eliminated N. H. Manderfield of Houghton in the morning round.

In winning the tournament final from Janson, Jolly's medal score for the 15 holes was 65 and Janson's 68. Janson shot a birdie two on number three and a birdie three on thirteen and Jolly clipped a birdie three on the fourth hole and a birdie four on the fifteenth.

The holes were divided as follows: 1-even; 2-Jolly; 3-Janson; 4-5-6-Jolly; 7-8-even; 9-10-Jolly; 13-14-Janson; 15-Jolly.

SENATORS WIN FROM DETROIT

Sad Sam Jones Cops Air-tight Hurling Game From George Uhle

Washington, Aug. 16 (AP)—Washington won a tight ball game today from the Detroit Tigers by a score of 3 to 1.

Two veterans, George Uhle for the Tigers, and "Sad Sam" Jones for the Nats, pitched tight ball all the way, until Jones was removed in the eighth with the bases loaded. Hadley stopped the rally and continued to hold Detroit scoreless.

Sam West, speedy Senator center fielder, was the batting hero of the day, driving in all of Washington's runs with his three singles and a three bagger. Heine Manush contributed the fielding gem of the day with a running back-hand overhead catch to end the Detroit sixth with the bases loaded.

Golf Champ May Not Defend His Title

Kalamazoo, Aug. 16. (AP)—Edwin "Brud" Dayton, 17 year old golfer who won the western Michigan amateur championship last season, may not be able to defend his title this year as a result of an automobile accident in which he suffered severe injuries here Saturday.

The western Michigan amateur tournament is scheduled to start August 21, at Silver Lake, Grand Rapids.

Dayton was driving east from Kalamazoo when his car skidded and struck two trees. He was found unconscious by passing motorists who rushed him to a local hospital. David De Weese, a friend in the car with Dayton, was also seriously injured.

Dayton also holds the Kalamazoo city championship.

HACK CLOUTS ANOTHER

Hack Wilson, Cubs' man of mighty with the big stick, yesterday pounded out his 41st home run of the season. He is only two homers from the National League record which it appears certain he will break.

GAMES TODAY

Rock at Osier.
Masonville at Wells.
Rapid River at Perkins.
Cooks at Little Lake.

With but one game separating Rock and Wells, the only teams in the Tri-County league now eligible for the championship, and three games left to play, the final results are far from being decided. By virtue of the results of last Sunday's game, Rock and Wells are the only teams in the league now able to cop the championship. Regardless of how many games they now lose, no other team can overtake them.

However, that does not mean that none of the rest of the teams haven't any more to say about who shall be champions. The team or teams that defeat Rock or Wells in the next three games will be the ones to really decide the championship. Rapid River and Osier have their chances in beating Rock, and Masonville and Little Lake have theirs in defeating Wells. It is generally agreed that Rock must win all its remaining games, with Rapid River and Osier, if they are to cop the honors as Wells should have no trouble winning their remaining games with Masonville and Little Lake.

Rock's test this week is the heavy hitting Osier crew and this should be a real test. Osier has shown some potential slugging in their two games with Rapid River and their victory over the Bay towners two weeks ago brands them as a pretty big pebble on Rock's remaining beach of opponents. If Rock isn't careful, they are likely to stub themselves on that pebble. Where Osier's brand of playing seems to be improving, Rock's seems to be on the decline. However, Rock has a few capable hitters on their roster and if anything goes wrong with their defense, they are still able to put up a heavy offense. There ought to be a little hitting in this game today.

Well's attempt to keep up to the Excelsiors today lies in their beating the tail end Masonville outfit. Masonville seems to be pretty far outclassed in the league and their hopes of a victory over the second placers seem very slim. Although they have given some of the stronger teams a good rub, and the fruits of their labor blossomed only once this year, against Rapid River early in the season. Wells has been going along at a fast clip and should have another victory when today's game is marked up.

What looks like a feature non-championship attraction is the Rapid River-Perkins fray. When we say something is going to happen in this game, we dont mean perhaps. Rapid River handed Perkins a 16-2 trimming in a previous encounter and the thought of that game still throbs in the hearts of the Perkin's lads.

When the Perkins crew start clouting the pill around the lot, they dont usually stop until considerable damage has been done. They are out to give Rapid a spoonful of their own medicine that will be pretty hard to swallow. However, Rapid is confident they will have no trouble subduing Perkins again. This game also looks like a free-for-all.

The Cooks-Little Lake fracas winds up the card for today. The Schoolcrafters had very little trouble taking the outfit from Marquette county into camp in a previous meeting and it looks as though Cooks is too well balanced for Little Lake. The Marquette county boys are pretty handy with the willow and there may be a chance of another slugging match here. However, this seems rather doubtful and it will be an upset if Cooks isn't at the long end of the score when the game is over.

NEWBERRY AT 'STIQUE TODAY

Ancient Rivals to Renew Battles of Former Campaigns

Newberry, ancient foes of Manistique, will play here this afternoon bent on reversing the defeat administered to them by the Griffinites earlier in the season. This will be the second exhibition game played by the two teams this season.

Experts predict a much closer battle today than was played in the last engagement which the locals won by a score of 17-10. Many new faces will be seen in the visitor's lineup which has been considerably bolstered since the early part of the season.

Just who will do the hurling for Manistique is a matter of conjecture. Manager Joe Griffin will call on either of his portsiders, Arrowood or Vassau, but no announcement has been made as to who would get the call. Murphy is slated to do mound duty for Newberry with Carroll on the receiving end. The game will start promptly at 2:30 p. m.

RALLIES HELP CHICAGO CUBS

Champs Win One Game and Split Second With Phillies

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP)—Ninth inning rallies today won the Cubs one game from Philadelphia, and saved them a beating in the second game of the double-header which was called at the end of the eleventh at 3-all.

Hack Wilson's forty-first homer of the season helped the Cubs to an 8 to 1 lead as the Phillies went into their half of the seventh, but the easterners went on a wild batting rampage that sent Teachout to the showers and accounted for eight runs. Hartnett's single scored Wilson with the winning run in the ninth.

Grove Hurls 20th Victory of Year; A's Trim Browns

Philadelphia, Aug. 16 (AP)—Grove, star southpaw of the Athletics, turned in his twentieth victory of the season against four defeats today by beating the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 2, in the opening game of a three-game series.

Grove, given a stern tussle by Dick Coffman, clubbed in the Athletics' first two runs of the game in the second inning. St. Louis tied the score with single runs in the fourth and fifth innings but in the seventh Haas' single, a double by McNair and Cochrane's single gave the champions the winning edge.

Hotsy Totsy Roars Over Line In Lead

Red Bank, N. J., Aug. 16 (AP)—"Hotsy Totsy," for years the unlucky "step child" of the Gold Cup racing fleet, came into its own at last today.

The slim mahogany speed boat that caught fire at Greenwich in 1927 and failed to finish in its only other attempt, in 1926, roared over the placid surface of the Shrewsbury river this afternoon to win the historic trophy and set a new record average of 52.673 miles per hour for the 90 mile grind, run off in three 30-mile heats.

Broadway Has Welcome For Irish Sailor

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Aug. 16 (AP)—Out of a fog as thick as those that traditionally cloak his native British Isles, doughty Sir Thomas Lipton sailed into New York harbor today on his fifth quest of the America's Cup, historic emblem of international yachting supremacy.

The tall, ruddy Irishman, bits of fog glistening on the fluff of whiskers that dot his chin, yatching cap perched jauntily on his gray hair, his cheery face wrinkled in his famous grin, stepped briskly from the liner Leviathan to the welcoming boat Macom at quarantine, despite his 81 years. His wit was as ready as ever, his hopes for the Shamrock V of the highest, and his determination as strong as ever to lift the "old mug" if it takes the remainder of his life.

Is Confident

"I've a feeling," he said as he leaned against the foremast of the Macom, waiting for Grover A. Whalen, chairman of New York's official welcoming committee, to appear, "that I've got the boat at last that can turn the trick. It's about time the old mug came back home again. You've had it for seventy-nine years now. But if I miss out I shall challenge again as soon as possible."

Sir Thomas has tried four times to win the America's Cup without success and has spent approximately $10,000,000 in the effort to regain for England a battered old mug actually worth about $150. With the first of the Shamrock line he met defeat for the first time in 1899, again in 1901 and 1903, and the last time in 1920, when the Shamrock IV bowed to the Resolute, skippered by Charles Francis Adams, now secretary of the navy.

RAILS TO PLAY AT ISHPEMING

Championship Will Go to Hematites If They Win Today

Ishpeming, Aug. 16 (Special)—The Ishpeming-Escanaba conflict at Legion park tomorrow afternoon juts out like the prow of a river steamboat in the day's baseball program.

For on this lot, scene of innumerable hectic battles since baseball was introduced at Ishpeming over a score of years ago, the absolute supremacy of the Upper Peninsula Amateur league is to be decided tomorrow afternoon. The Hematites have the gonfalon in their grasp, but to establish undisputed ownership of the pennant, the first an Ishpeming club has copped in many seasons, they must turn back the invasion of the Delta ball tossers.

It Is Ladies' Day

Tomorrow has been designated as "ladies' day" at Legion park and all members of "the weaker sex" will be admitted free of charge. They and their escorts, as well as the remainder of the Hematites' boosters, are certain to be treated to the best exhibition of ball dished up on the Legion park diamond this season.

The Hematites have a record of nine straight wins with not a loss chalked up against them this season. Whether they can make it No. 10, as they have declared they will, hangs in the balance.

If the previous meeting of these clubs is any criterion, tomorrow's tussle should develop into the most brilliantly played game Ishpeming fans have witnessed in several seasons. Exactly three hours and 50 minutes of play were required by the Miners to wrest the decision from the Railroaders in their first meeting at Escanaba when the score at the end of the game was 10 to 8 in favor of the Hematites.

CARS NEEDED.

A few of the players on the Escanaba baseball team traveling to Ishpeming today are without transportation. Local fans who are making the trip and who have any room left in their cars are requested to call 1329 this morning.

UPSET MARKS SARATOGA RACE

Jim Dandy, 100-1 Shot, Whips Gallant Fox and Whichone

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Saratoga Springs, Aug. 16 (AP)—In the most sensational upset the turf has ever seen since the days of Man O' War, Earl's Jim Dandy, a 100 to 1 shot, galloped through the mud today to administer a sound beating to the twin contenders for three year old championship honors, the previously undefeated Gallant Fox, winner of six consecutive races, and the almost equally famous Whichone.

While a crowd of 40,000 spectators, including Governor Roosevelt, stood stunned by the astonishing spectacle, the California owned three year old, smartly ridden by Jockey F. Baker, whipped the Fox and Earl Sande by six good lengths and Whichone and Sonny Workman by 12 lengths in the Travers Stake.

Racing conditions, the weather, may have had something to do with it, but the decisiveness of Jim Dandy's victory, first scored by the colt this year, left small room for argument among those who watched the downfall of the two favorites of three year old supremacy.

The Fox, though tasting defeat for the first time this year after smashing triumphs in the Preakness, Kentucky Derby and Belmont, settled the issue with Whichone, pride of the Harry Payne Whitney stable.

Jim Dandy, taking command of the race at the halfway mark, finished galloping in the slow time of 2 minutes, 8 seconds for the route of one mile and a quarter.

Cardinals Lose to Boston Braves, 6-5

St. Louis, Aug. 16 (AP)—Despite four errors the Boston Braves took the fith game of the series from St. Louis Cardinals here today, 6 to 5, Bob Smith going the route for the Braves.

The Braves opened the scoring in the first inning with two runs and added three more in the fourth. The Cardinals tied it up in the fifth and Grabowski who relieved Rhem paved the way for the Braves winning run in the eighth by a wild pitch.

Nelson's Travel Stories

Every nation bases its claim for supremacy on the world market on some particular qualification. Sweden can, without the slightest exaggeration, write on every one of its export articles the word "QUALITY" in large letters.

Several times in my articles of the past year I have pointed out particular Swedish exports as quality products, but it was not until just before leaving Sweden that I learned, almost to my surprise, that even nature in Sweden is a help toward the production of quality products. I refer to the Swedish timber, which with its manufactured products, is Sweden's principal item of export.

Swedish Logging Methods

In the severe climate of the Swedish forest region, trees naturally grow slowly. The period of growth of an ordinary pine log may be taken as from 100 to 150 years. The consequences of this long period of growth is that the rings in Swedish trees lie closer together than in those of the same variety found in milder climes, where the timber is often soft and porous and has widely spaced rings, due to a faster growth. The close-grained Swedish wood is resistant to great changes of temperature, and owing to this property Swedish pine is less affected by climatic conditions than most other kinds.

The methods employed in the Swedish lumber industry also favor the production of wood of high grade. As the logs are floated in exceedingly cold water there is no danger of their becoming unsound or blued, as can easily happen with pine logs stored on land during the summer, for the albumen and carbo-hydrate in the wood, which might otherwise cause putrefaction, are washed out in floating. This washing-out process also improves the wood, it is said, by making it more stable and when dried less liable to shrink, swell, or crack than timber which has not been floated.

Forests Worth Much

Sweden's forests are known as its "green gold," and this is not surprising when 56.5 per cent, or about 66,000,000 acres, of the total area of Sweden is covered with forests. The total volume of standing timber in Sweden has been estimated at 1,417,000,000 cubic meters, of which 573,000,000 cubic meters are pine and 596,000,000 cubic meters are spruce.

Forestry alone provides employment for about 75,000 of the population; sawmills and planing mills for another 50,000; and the pulp industry for about 22,000 men. If the families of those employed be included, livelihood from Sweden's forests is provided over 375,000 persons.

In a recent talk, Arvid Lindman, late prime minister of Sweden, stated that the annual gross sales value of Sweden's forest products amounts to 950 million kroner (about $256,000,000). Of this sum, the forest owners pocket 200 million, he said, while the workmen and employes, including woodsmen, timberloggers, the workmen of the refining industry, and clerks, get about twice as much. The Swedish merchant fleet derives an income of about 50 million kronor from the shipping of Swedish forest products and the Swedish State railways 35 million kronor.

Sweden has during several centuries, but especially since about 1900, recognized the importance of caring for its forests in such a way that the supply of timber be not depleted. The last forestry law, passed in 1923, has for its object the permanent reforestration and the protection of young growth. The annual increase in pine is calculated at 18,150,000 cubic meters and that of spruce at 19,810,000. The rate of growth varies in different parts of Sweden, depending on the soil and climatic conditions.

The exploitation of Sweden's forests is greatly facilitated by the existence in the timber districts of numerous watercourses. These have been converted into channels for floating the timber from the woods down to the sawmills. A traveler in Sweden first realizes the importance of these water ways when he finds them filled with millions of logs.

Much Timber Floated

Most of the rivers run from the northwest to the southeast, and even this is an advantage, as the snow melts first in the lower part of the rivers, with the thaw ascending gradually. This makes for an even distribution of the spring flood.

The aggregate length of the floating channels is about 18,000 miles. About 145,000,000 logs, or 15,000,000 cubic meters of timber are floated down annually. Less than a million cubic meters of timber in Sweden are carried by rail.

Nearly all the timber in Sweden is cut during the winter months, lumbering operations beginning early in December and lasting until March or April. In certain parts of the country the greater part of the agricultural population is engaged in forestry one way or another during part of the year.

The logs are hauled on sleds, now more and more on motor trucks or with tractors, to the nearest waterway, where they are stacked on the ice. Each log is marked by stamping a brand into both ends, each timber owner having his own brand. In the spring, when the ice breaks and the rivers are in flood, floating begins. Before the floating channels were repaired and cleaned out, it often took a log two to four years to reach the mills, but today they are floated down in a year.

Swedish timber found its first market in France and Great Britain, and later in Germany, Holland, Belgium, and Denmark. Gradually Swedish timber products have found their way into the more distant parts of the world, and even the United States is a big buyer of Swedish timber products in the form of pulp and paper.

Tests at the Swedish government testing institute have proved that Swedish pine has much greater strength than certain North American woods. In standard tests it has been found to have a tensile strength from 25 to 40 per cent greater than that of American western pine, red sitka, and white spruce. Surely nature has been liberal to Sweden in its natural resources.

Holy Name Picnic At Pioneer Park

Members of St. Joseph's Holy Name society will hold their annual picnic at Pioneer Trail Park today. Everyone is asked to bring their own lunch, coffee and cups. Refreshments will be served on the grounds. The members of the parish, Holy Name society and their friends, as well as the general public are invited to attend the picnic.

A program of games, races, stunts, tug of war, diamond ball, horseshoe pitching and other amusements have been arranged by the committee.

ATTEND THE FAIR

THE third annual Upper Peninsula State Fair will open here on Monday, presenting to the public a pretentious educational and entertainment program that promises to far surpass the two previous state expositions.

Monday is Delta-Alger-Schoolcraft day at the fair, and incidentally mayors of Escanaba, Gladstone, Manistique, Munising and other communities have issued official proclamations, urging their people to attend the fair on their special day. Escanaba citizens, who appreciate the fact that this great state institution is situated in our midst, are closing their places of business and leaving their work on Monday afternoon in order to cooperate with the plan to secure a large attendance on the opening day.

The fair management is desirous of making the Upper Peninsula State Fair a six-day event rather than a two-day effort. A large crowd on the first day will serve to distribute the attendance more evenly over the week, and in case of inclement weather the latter part of the week there will be the consolation of having already realized success.

All exhibits will be set up on Monday, and the work of judging will be in progress during the afternoon. As for the entertainment program in front of the grandstond, fair patrons are assured that it will be the best that ever have been witnessed here. Theatrical entertainers always put forth their best efforts on the first night in order to obtain favoroble comments regarding their performance and the increased attendance that will result therefrom. The excellence of this year's program is certain to please the opening day patrons.

Let's jam the fair grounds on Monday.

THE MINORITY RULES.

IF IT were announced that one-fifth of the people in America were going to have the privilege of choosing our candidates and deciding on all measures at the primaries, there would be a cry of protest that would echo from Wall Street to Hollywood. People would refuse to vote on a ticket chosen for them by others when the election rolled around in November.

They would cry out that grand old American privilege had been taken away. That they had as much right to vote at the primaries as at the regular election. Oh, yes, we would hear from them in a babel of tongues.

But those same people are sitting by now, perfectly satisfied to let one-fifth of the nation choose the candidates on which they will vote eventually. They just don't trouble to help their party make out a god ticket. Yet they think that it should be strong and able to carry when the final election comes around. They complain bitterly if it doesn't suit them. But they refuse to help in the primaries as evidenced by the vote in those just held.

Human nature is queer. Especially when judged by a political gauge. It is much more important to chose wisely at the primaries and have a worth-while ticket to present in the end than to fight to see which men and issues will predominate when only two are competing.

The people in the United States are given the privilege of choosing their own men and measures. They like to think that they have a voice in the government. But they get hoarse or are stricken dumb along about time for the primaries.

The primary is the real testing ground. The November elections are based entirely on this preliminary material.

Human nature, as we said before, is strange. That is why it leaves its political interests hanging in the closet, letting them get a little musty and moth eaten, and then can't understand when someone suggests that only people who appreciate and use their ballots should have them.

We seem to demand privileges. But we calmly add that whether we use them or not is our affair. And meanwhile one-fifth of the nation decides the fate of the other four-fifths.

A HERO GOES WEST

ANOTHER good soldier has gone West. He has found his regiment and sits contentedly in some far land where barbed wire, gas, and bursting shells are no longer a tortured memory.

Old Cap or Captain, as he was called, was a wire-haired Griffon, who served with the French Red Cross, with distinction, during the World War. It was his task to find the wounded men who lay in the tangled barbed wire and shell holes. Old Cap never faltered. Through the flames, on where the gas clouds rolled, a masked over his nose and eyes, he ran.

Somehow he knew that it was duty. There were men, his comrades in the army, who needed help. And always he came.

"Cap will find me," one soldier in his outfit would murmur to another. "Don't worry. He'll be along 'most any minute."

All through the weary years Cap performed his duty. If he was scared, nobody ever knew it. His bright eyes would listen carefully to orders and he would obey them faithfully.

Then the war ended. An American soldier brought the dog home. Something must have told his heart that war was over. That his services were no longer required along the barbed wire.

When he had been needed he had never hesitated to go. Now that he wasn't, he stayed away from all wire fences. Nothing could coax him near. He remembered the sharp, sudden hail . . . the blood . . . the moans . . . black nights with mad red fire. The other day he died at Ware, Mass., at a ripe age.

There is a lesson in the life of the soldier-dog who has passed through the western gates. He was never afraid to risk his life as long as he could be of service. But when he knew that he couldn't, he calmly refused to take an unnecessary risk.

Some of the gay flirtations with death today might end more happily if we used the same dog sense.

A CINDERELLA RETURNS

A LITTLE more than a year ago the world wondered why one of its favorite Cinderellas had decided to go home from the ball. It was a long, long time until the clock would strike twelve. The crystal slipper fitted perfectly, and all the silken ladies and gay gallants were bowing graciously.

But Marion Talley removed the shining gowns, slipped off the beads and bracelets that she had worn at the ball, and put on a sunbonnet. She listened to the last applause from the glittering horseshae. She received her last red roses. She threw a kiss at the charmed circle. The stage lights winked their golden eyes and went out. The velvet curtains rustled together.

Marion was tired of glamour, so she was going away. Going out to Kansas to raise wheat and corn. She had sung for a farm and now she was happy.

But now Marion is back in New York again for a little. She has returned to make phonograph records. She says that it is hot in Kansas, the corn is only fair . . . that she won't say that she will never come back to the opera if the urge grows strong enough.

After all, it is a far, far cry from fields of sun-baked corn to the fantasy and romance of the opera stage where life dances along to a tragic drama or a laughing fantasy and the actress plays on pulsing, blood-red hearts. There is a long road winding from the black and white ladders of song down a country road where farmers pray for rain.

Everyone wondered why Marion Talley stepped out of the story-book and closed its silver covers. After the discouragement which has been the portion of farmers this year, no one will censure Marion Talley if she decides to go back to the ball, one glass slipper in her pocket, hoping that the music masters still hold its mate against the time when she returns.

Bernard Shaw, who said he signed a contract for the movies because of financial reasons, is one who feels, no doubt, that money talkies.

A decree has been issued in Mexico against "pistol toting." This action is pretty sure to make inaugurations there in the future rather spiritless affairs.

One fact to keep in mind these hard times is that a small roll is often better than a loaf.

THE WIFE AND MOTHER

You must not weary when the others do,
For then the others always look to you
For strength and comfort; no, you must not tire
Until the rest achieve their own desire.

You must not weaken when the others fail,
For then the others look to you to hail
Their hearts with courage; on the hardest slope,
Your own heart hopeless, you must give them hope.

You must not sadden when the others weep,
For then the others look to you to keep
Their own faith sure; you must not mourn your child
Until the others have been reconciled.

THE HOLLYWOOD STORY

(By NEA Service) By ERNEST LYNN

CHAPTER XVII

Rorimer recognized among the faces he saw in the patio a few that he had beheld more than once on the screen. There was an executive from Amalgamated, too, and a director, and lesser folk. He presently found himself beside a dazzling blond young lady who, Collins informed him, was playing a lead in the picture he was at present directing.

Farrell was her name, and Maris Farrell wanted to know immediately if Rorimer was "in pictures." "I heard Mr. Collins say you were at Continental."

Dan smilingly informed her that he didn't act in them. "I'm trying to write them, that's all."

"I'm sorry I misser them," critically from beneath mascaraed eyelashes, said she saw no reason why he shouldn't do a little of both, and he laughed.

"What a friend you turned out to be! I think I'll stay right here all evening."

"That would be just fine," Maris Farrell assured him with a flash of brilliant teeth. "May I have a cigaret? Someone is going to sing, and I'll have to do something if I can't talk."

There was a Mexican, with broad-brimmed hat and bright sash and jacket, and tight-fitting green trousers with bottoms like bells, and he sang for them for a while and played an accordion. The Japanese butler moved unobtrusively among the guests, bearing a tray with drinks, and Rorimer found before very long that he came around quite often. And Miss Farrell wanted to know in a slightly husky whisper if Dan didn't think it would be more sensible if the glasses were about twice as tall, so that the butler could save himself a lot of trips.

It would be an admirable idea, Rorimer thought, and she asked him if he had ever been invited to tea at the home of a certain black-haired star whom she named, and when Dan said no, she told him that if he ever went there he would see the "most precious" highball glasses in Hollywood. "Each one holds a pint, or very nearly, and is about a foot high."

She added that she would get a set just like them, only she imagined they were frightfully expensive. "They came from Europe."

"I'm sorry I missed them," Dan said. "I don't get around very much, though. I leave the social honors to the man who lives with me."

"And who is he? Do I know him?"

Rorimer said he wouldn't be surprised if she did. "I think Paul Collier knows nearly everyone in Hollywood."

"Paul Collier! Do you live with Paul Collier? Why, of course I know him! He has had tea and luncheon with me lots of times. You must get Paul to bring you over some time," she added.

Someone came over to speak to Maris Farrell just then and Rorimer was left alone for a minute or two with his thoughts, and he had opportunity to observe Anne Winter and to remark that the man with her was being very attentive. Frank Maury, Collins had said his name was, and Dan remembered that Paul Collier had found occasion to mention him once or twice of late in his column. Collier had said that Maury, who was a free-lance actor, was riding on a sudden wave of feminine popularity, and two of the larger studios were trying to get him to sign a contract.

Maury had dark, curling hair which Dan thought was in need of trimming, and he was bronzed to the color of an Indian. But he looked like a young god, and Dan found it easy to believe that he might have found great favor among women screen devotees. He and Anne were sitting together on a little bench, and Maury was talking animatedly and gesturing fluently with his hands. Rorimer caught Anne's eye once, and she smiled, but Maris Farrell's low voice beside him brought him back to her.

The Mexican finished "Ramono," and bowed and made a smiling exit, and presently there was the sound of an orchestra from the ballroom, and Mrs. Collins paused for a moment to tell Maris and Dan there was dancing for those who felt ambitious enough for it.

Maris got up at once and took Rorimer's arm, but on the way inside she said, "There's a phonograph there. If we get bored upstairs we can come down and dance in the patio." Anne Winter and Maury were still in the patio when they left.

Anne said, "We seem to be the only ones left out here. Don't you think we'd getter go in?"

"I'm perfectly satisfied out here," Maury told her, leaning unnecessarily close to her, "but if you say so—"

And Anne rose, and he had to follow.

She was glad when someone cut in on them after a while and took her away. It was Collins, and Anne found his friendly, amusing chatter a relief from Maury's impressiveness. She didn't like the way Maury held her when he danced, had stiffened her body against his too-tight embrace.

Collins inquired whether she was keeping busy, and she told him about the forthcoming production at Grand United and the part she hoped to merit. She was deprecating about it, but could not conceal from the director her eagerness.

"It's nothing very impressive, really, but it's rather wonderful to me."

"But it's not the fatness of the part, Miss Winter; it's what you do with it." And Collins told her some things that sounded very comforting and set her to tingling with hope. "There's Maris Farrell, for instance; she just about stole a picture away from a star once with a few lines."

Maris Farrell, he added, was a "comer." "She'll be a star some day if she keeps on the way she's going. . . . You met her, didn't you? She's the girl that had hold of Dan Rorimer for a while. For quite a while," he said, and laughed.

His eyes roved the room, and he said, "I don't see them now. Maybe Maris has kidnaped him. Don't trust her too far, Miss Winter. I warn you she's dangerous."

Anne threw back her head and looked up at him and laughed. "I thing she's beautiful," she said. "I can't blame Dan if he falls under her spell. Where is she from?"

"Maris? She's a comparative newcomer to the screen. She was glorified by Ziegfeld."

Maris he continued was the kind that would "get along." "She's a very ambitious girl, and she has the knack of being lovely and agreeable to everyone she meets."

He added, jokingly, that he wondered it that wasn't one way of cultivating a lovely personality for the screen. "Nothing like working at it all the time, you know."

Their dance ended, and Collins wanted to know if she would like to look around the house and grounds.

"Helen"—that was his wife—"and I are like a couple of kids with a new toy, and we love to show off."

Frank Maury was coming toward them, walking a little unsteadily, and Anne hastily agreed. She shuddered a little to think of being cornered by Maury and having to listen to his flattery, especially since it had been seasoned by his frequent trips to the punch bowl.

So she told Collins she would love to explore the house with him, and he said that if she would promise to be very quiet about it he would even let her tiptoe into the children's bedrooms.

"I'll promise," Anne said gaily, and she took his arm. "I won't make a sound." And she asked him to tell her about his children.

"A leading man of five," he told her, "and a seven-year-old vamp with hair almost as black as yours. She's not quite as pretty, though," he added, and he drew away for a second and looked at her in smiling appraisal; "but I have hopes."

He took her then, to the bedrooms where the children lay sleeping, but first he had to win the consent of the smiling little Japanese maid who watched nearby.

"Tsuika, do you suppose you could open the door for just a tiny little peek?" He held a finger to his lips, and Tsuika considered a while and then nodded.

Collins said, "Tsuika's very strict with me about this. Aren't you, Tsuika? It's quite against her rules. Well, we'll just be a second."

And after Anne had seen the children and admired them, he strolled with her through the upstairs, and then he told her she must see the swimming pool.

Only a few guests were dancing as they passed the ballroom. Collins said he supposed that his wife was conducting another tour some place. "Maybe they're over in the dressing rooms by the pool, picking out their bathing suits. You knew we were going swimming later on, didn't you?"

"Why, no," Anne said.

Collins said, "Oh, yes; it wouldn't be a real housewarming if they didn't try out the pool. And some of the fevered brows," he added, his smile crinkling the corners of his eyes and stretching his little mustache, "will want a little cooling before the party's over. They always do."

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

Richard Dix, ever-popular screen star, will be seen in a new type of characterization in "Shooting Straight," Radio's Pictures' all-talking drama which opens today at the Delft theatre. The role is that of a two-fisted gambler whose regeneration is achieved after a series of thrilling and dramatic occurences.

Dix has played practically every type of role during his notable screen career and recently has proved himself to be a most capable farceur in light comedy parts. But in "Shooting Straight" he is brought back to a powerful dramaatic and red-blooded role that has been hailed by audiences and critics as one of his greatest of characterizations.

"Shooting Straight" is adapted from an original story by Barney Sarecky. Filled full of action, movement and suspense, it is perfectly suited to the talking screen, for J. Walter Ruben has supplied powerful dialogue treatment. Director George Archainbaud, veteran of the silent screen and one of the most competent directors in the new medium, has received high praise from metropolitan critics for his work.

Monday's Program

Should a wife keep a secret from her husband, no matter how harmless it is?

This harrassing social question is revived with fresh impetus in "The Locked Door," a stirring all-dialogue photodrama of love and mystery coming next Monday to the Delft theatre.

Under the direction of George Fitzmaurice, one of United Artists ace directors, the picture tells in an interesting and entertaining manner the heartaches and tragedies resulting from withholding even the most innocent item from the past.

Headed by an all-star cast composed of Rod La Rocque, Barbara Stanwyck, the sensational Broadway star of "The Noose" and "Burlesque" and William Boyd, stage star of the original play, "What Price Glory," and Betty Bronson.

In the supporting cast are Zasu Pitts Mack Swain, Harry Stubs, Harry Mestayer, George Bunny, Clarence Burton and Edward Dillion.

Here's A Message to Weather Man from the Bard of Kipling

Kiplings mich Augist 15st—Well these are what they call the Dog Days for no special reason a Tall but you have to watch out What you eat & etc. & it seems they are All Ways trying to cut down on Something so why dont they Make a rule against eating Spinish instead of Picking on tobaccoe and etc.

And I remark the other day to a man that this was the Dog Days & he says it is All Ways dog days for Me as my wife treats me like a dog which seems to bad Litterally speaking.

But all we ask of dog days these days is a greak from the Weather mans and For why you ask Will I will explain you in poem as follows

O the Upper Peninscula Fair
The Intire U. P. will be there
The dates You have Heard
From 18th to 23rd
lets make it big wk. for Fair.

We will curry the Horses & Cow and shine up the pigs & the sow and bring them all in for prizes to win
And we will make Hoopee and How

So weather man make no Mistake
Be sure that you give us a Break and order Fair weather
when we get together
For U. P. State fair all next week.

VIRGINIA DARE'S BIRTH

On Aug. 18, 1587, Virginia Dare, the first child born in America of English parents, was born on Roanoke Island, Va., now a part of North Carolina.

Sir Walter Raleigh was trying to found a colony in this region which he called Virginia in honor of Queen Elizabeth, the Virgin Queen. The new baby, therefore, was named for the country. She was the granddaughter of John White, who was sent out by Raleigh as governor of the Roanoke colony.

Two days after her birth she was baptized "according to the rites of the Church of England." This was the first celebration of the rite of Christian baptism of a North American born white child.

Before virginia was three years old, the colony disappeared, and no one knows to this day what became of it. The "Lost Colony of Roanoke" is regarded as one of the mysteries of history. One legend is that the colonists intermarried with the Indians and are the ancestors of the present band of Croatan Indians living in the southern part of North Carolina, who number about 300.

William Strachey, on the other hand, writing in 1613, states "the men, women and children of the first plantation of Roanoke were killed by practice and commandment of Powhattan."

'Looking Backward'

AUGUST 17, 1910.

Chase S. Osborn, in his candidacy to secure the Republican nomination for governor has a host of personal and political friends in this city and county judging by the large crowd who assembled at the city hall last night to hear Mr. Osborn's supporters who are now working in this county. Lieut. Gov. Patrick Kelly and Amos S. Musselman, Mr. Osborne's opponents, have both been here in person and yet the visit of neither aroused as much enthusiasm as did this meeting which was not honored by Mr. Osborn's presence, but only by that of his representatives. William R. Gates of Laurium and Rev. J. A. Keneddy of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

The Chicago Giants are scheduled to play the Gladstone baseball team Sept. 1 and 2. The Giants are also booked to play Escanaba within the next two weeks.

The Ladies' Aid of the First M. E. church will hold a pantry sale at the home of Mrs. H. W. Coburn, 511 Hale St. Saturday. Orders will be taken by phone.

George Cholger of North Escanaba and Miss Martha Bittner of Ford River Switch, have been licensed to marry.

Herbert Schram is expected to arrive today from Chicago to visit his brothers Isaac and Chester Schram.

Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Smith and little son, Stack, have returned from an automobile trip to various points in Wisconsin.

A party of Escanaba young women are enjoying a season of outing life at Fayette. They are the Misses Edith O'Meara, Loretta Corcoran, Marguerite Tuohy, Ethel Cusson, Edith Conners, Maud Semer, Katherine Walch, Mary McGuire, Mayme Ehnerd, Ella Sullivan, Viola Primeau, and Adele Hessel.

The Escanaba band will give the first of a series of promenade concerts at the North Star hall Saturday evening. The band will render a special program of popular music.

Mrs. A. J. Buerney and her daughter Marguerite, are visiting with Mrs. Buerney's mother at Marinette. They were called there on account of the illness of Miss Susan McNellis, who submitted to a delicate operation in the Menominee River Hospital.

Verner Edberg of Ishpeming has arrived in the city to make his home and will become a member of the Escanaba City band. He is a cornetist, and has played in several large bands.

Chase S. Osborn made nearly three hundred speeches in July and since he started his motor campaign has averaged 800 miles per week and ten speeches every day except Sunday, although it might be added he has filled the pulpit of two Methodist churches since he left the straits on the final lap of his campaign.

Peninsula Paragraphs

By Marjorie Huntoon Morrill

RED DEATH.

It is not so bad to die
With the blaze of a battle to dazzle the soul.
A fight is a good thing
When the blood leaps like a deer
In the bottom lands of Tahquamenon
And sings songs of glory
To muffle the final call.

But this—this is not fair,
This red dark thing
That creeps into the nest of a partridge
And leans down in wierd garlands
To strangle the baby foxes.

Having a heart in his breast
And a brain in his head
One should reckon a man would learn
Something about this,
Some little care for beauty and gentleness;

Songs that will never be sung,
Small furred things whose day was joyful
And who shivered and watched with little blazes
In their eyes, and then leaped, and died.

And, oh, a tree is a beautiful thing
But helpless.
There is no running away,
No shrinking and no flinching,
But only slow torture and years to die in.
Or one sudden blaze to reach for the sky
And then—blackness. . . .

There are men who fight for the forest.
They give their hearts for the trees.
They know;
They have planted a baby tree
Small as your hand but spicy with potential greatness.
They have watched through the seasons,
The green candles glowing in the summer,
Snow smoothed for winter protection,
First green tip showing in the spring.
Little by little they see it grow
Washed by rain and tossed in baby dances
By the winds
Until, one day, it is a tree
With a song-sparrow singing from the tip.

Sad, sad.
Today the Red Death stalks.

Health Tips

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

In the condition known as pernicious anemia there seems to be a difiency to the total number of red blood cells. A lessened number of cells may be due to the fact that they are being destroyed too rapidly or to the fact that they are not being created sufficiently rapidly and in sufficient quantities.

In the condition known as pernicious anemia their number decreases so rapidly and stays decreased so certainly that serious conditions occur affecting life itself. The number of red blood cells may fall to 1,000,000 to 1,200,000, instead of the 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 that represents the normal.

One of the greatest discoveries of recent times was the development of the knowledge that the liver contains a substance which has the specific power of raising the number of red blood cells, apparently by stimulating the production of red blood cells in the places in the body where they are produced, notably in the bone marrow. Concentrated extracts have the possibility of life instead of the formerly fatal result.

Continued investigation now shows that there are substances also in the wall of the stomach and also in the muscles which have this specific power. It is obvious that only the very forefront of this unknown land has been invaded by science. Much more needs to be known as to the nature of the red blood cell its method of formation, growth and destruction.

The substances used are gross compounds which must be analyzed down to their fundamental ingredients. Whereas one began by eating tremendous quantities of raw liver, one may now take a concentrated powder. It seems possible that the time will come when the active principle of this powder will be isolated in the shape of some chemical element.

The red blood cells perhaps have something to do with the ability of the body to resist the germs of disease. Certainly they can be sensitized in such a way that they will clump together or dissolve when certain substances of bacterial or chemical nature are injected into the body.

These reactions are just beginning to be established and understood. Obviously, if the red blood cells clump together or dissolve, the result to the patient's health is extremely serious.

Brilliant Night Show Will Be Feature Attraction of State Fair

FIESTA OF 1930 BIG SPECTACLE

Highlanders Band and Ballet Artists on Special Stage

The American chorus girl, from the days when the late Lillian Russell was in the line down to the present day, is to musical comedy what the diamond is to Tiffany's Fifth Ave., show window—the sparkle that attracts and pleases the eye and then draws the patronage of the entrapped spectator, all the other decoys to lead the elusive dollars into the box office, including the ex-chorus girls promoted to stardom, to the contrary notwithstanding.

That rather unequivocal encomium of the sisters of the ensemble is from Roy D. Smith, producer of the newest of the open-air musical sensations, the "1930 Fiesta," a show of songs, dances and pretty girls that has been built on even a large scale than many of the famous Ziegfeld productions and along lines equally as lavish—the show that has been engaged by the management of the U. P. State Fair as its principal night attraction in front of the grandstand this year.

Massive Production.

Nearly every producer of a musical show, in the last three or four years especially, has taken advantage of the slightest opportunity to compare his show with that of a Ziegfeld production. But, it is only in the rarest of cases that such a comparison in warranted When it is considered that more than 10,000 sq., ft., of canvas was used in creating the four mammoth scenes; that more than a ton of oils and paint was used on the sets; that the masking sections of the main set are 50 ft., in width, instead of 15 to 20 ft., the regulation theatre size; that a portable and up to modern theatre requirements swithboard is a part of the company's equipment and that it carries more than 250 beautiful and especially designed costumes, it does not seem out of the way for Mr. Smith to say that he is bringing to the outdoor stage a presentation that very favorably compares with anything of the kind ever presented in the country's largest theatres.

Great Lighting Effect.

If it had been possible for the crowds that will visit the U. P. State Fair this year to visit the immense studios where the "Fiesta" production was being made ready for its road tour and take a peek at what was being done, it would be the easiest thing imaginable to convince them that the show was being built on a huge scale and that it is one of the most lavish affairs yet produced for the open-air stage. The studios would have been found beehives of activity, with seamstresses, costumes designers, carpenters, electricians, artists, propertymen and stage managers engaged in the task of whipping the big show into shape for its tours of the country's leading fairs. It would have been seen, at a glance, that the producers were marking time with the producers of the largest movie productions and the best things that were being done for this winter's living stage. Roy D. Smith showed good judgement and excellent showmanship in surrounding himself with the best talent that his profession affords. Now his dream of the past, that some day someone would build a production as beautiful as it was massive, is a reality, and is it hoped that other producers will fall in line and follow the example he has set in bringing to the fore the finest in outdoor amusements.

Famous Band Plays.

There was a time when the sudden and unexpected blare of half a dozen trumpets, hidden from the audience's view, made an auspicious and thrilling opening for any musical show. Now when bands with thirty and forty musicians occupy the stages of the largest theatres and are made a part of the elaborate presentations, and in mayy cases featured in them, the efforts of the producers of the past to thrill and amaze the spectators seem very tame, indeed. Smith will not take a back seat this season when it comes to stage music, as he announces that his own world-renowned Royal Scotch Highlanders Band will be a part of the "Fiesta" show and will appear twice daily to entertain grandstand patrons—at the matinee in their colorful Scotch costumes and at night in brilliant costumes designed especially to blend with the gorgeous background. of the production.

Noted Artists in Troupe

Among the artists of note who will be seen in the "Fiesta" are Dora Hilton, formerly a member of the Manhattan Opera Company, New York City; Julia Comton, whose clever and delightful dancing in the Chicago Civic Opera ballet was liberally commented on by the press and applauded by the audiences; Bobby Brollier, whose inimitable style of delivering Scotch songs has made him a favorite in every large city in America and in many abroad; Rosalie Hathaway, who danced with marked success in the Los Angeles Grand Opera ballet; Virginia Smith, beautiful and shapely young lady who leads the "ladder" number in the Garden Wall scene and startles the spectators with her daring and gracefulness; Mary Lou Spencer, who will, in company with Julia Compton repeat the Pavley & Oukrainsky popular "doll dance," Margaret Byrne, who leads the beautiful Rose ballet and Roy D. Smith, conductor of the Scotch Highlanders Band.

SONG ARTIST

BOBBY BROLLIER

Bobby Brollier, who is described as the "Singer with a million friends," is announced as one of the stars in the cast of fifty that will take part in the brilliantly staged musical show, "1930 Fiesta," night attraction at the Upper Peninsula State Fair. Bobby will be accompanied by the famous Royal Scotch Highlanders Band when he sings his well known songs in Scotch dialect. Other celebrities in the company are, Julia Compton, premiere danseuse of the Pavley and Oukrainsky ballet, a feature of the show, who is well and favorably known for her wonderful dancing in the Chicago Civic Opera ballet; Dora Hilton, formerly with the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York; Roy De Smith, the popular and colorful bandmaster of the Highlanders Band; Sana Rayya, character dancer and the sprightly and pretty Lydia Arlove who won praise in unstinted measure while touring Europe as a feature of the Pavley and Oukrainsky ballet.

Street Cars Offer Additional Service During Fair Week

The Escanaba Traction Company will offer additional service during the week of the Upper Peninsula State Fair. Besides the regular car service, several extra cars will be placed on the line leading direct to the gates of the fairgrounds and will run eight minutes apart.

The Gladstone cars will leave Escanaba at the east end of the Ludington Street on the hour. The Groos car will leave on the half hour and the Charlotte or Tenth street car will leave at five minutes past the hour and five minutes past the half hour as usual. This schedule is given to enable strangers in the city to make connections with the interurban cars.

The cars to the fairground will leave the east end of Ludington at five minutes to the hour and will run eight minutes apart every afternoon and evening beginning daily at noon.

In the forenoons two cars will operate to the fairgrounds while in the afternoons and evenings four cars will operate on that line, besides the regular Gladstone and Gross cars pass the intersection of Washington avenue and Sheridan road.

Carload of Fireworks Arrives for Big Fair

The largest single shipment of high explosives and fireworks that has ever been received in this part of the state, an entire carload sent here in a special fireproof car, has arrived in preparation for the opening of the Upper Peninsula State Fair on Monday.

The car was accompanied here by a corps of experts from the Thearle-Duffield Company of Chicago, who will have charge of all phases of "The Festival of Fire," the big night spectacle which will headline the fair. Work has been begun to lay the ground connections and set up the elaborate equipment which will be used in carrying out the complete evening pyrotechnic program.

"Fireworks has always been one of the most popular features at the leading fairs of the country, and it is because of this popularity that we have gone beyond anything previously attempted in this part of the state in our plans for the big night show at the fair this year," Secretary George E. Harvey said today. "'The Festival of Fire' will be presented by the largest fireworks producers in the world, the Thearle-Duffield Company of Chicago, who are famous for the presentations which they made at the last three World Fairs and for the spectacles which they present each year at practically all of the leading state fairs of the country. The fact that they are sending several of their best men here to manage and carry out the entire show each night indicates the calibre of the production which will be offered to the public."

"The Festival of Fire," according to the program which has been given out, will run the entire gamut of pyrotechnic art, ranging from such old favorites as "Niagara Falls" and the 'Fountain of Jewels" to new comedy action pieces. Officials here are predicting that the evening show this year will break all previous records at the fair."

Rushton Sees Much Success For '30 Fair

BY STATE SENATOR H. J. RUSHTON

Manager, U. P. State Fair

This year's Upper Peninsula State Fair will be all that is claimed for it—the best fair that has ever been held here. Of this I am certain.

With this determination in mind the fair board has devoted more time and effort to this year's fair than ever before.

The good will and cooperation of the public, people in all walks of life, here made the fair what it is today. This is as it should be for after all the fair belongs to the people. It is their faith in it, and their willingness to assist that makes it possible to maintain the Upper Peninsula State Fair at its present high standard of excellency.

To my mind one of the best advance indications of the success of this year's fair is the demand for exhibit and concession space. This in itself is a healthy sign for it proves that the merchant, the manufacturer and the jobber are all equally interested in the fair, and realize its value to the community.

We expect a larger children's day this year than ever. Last year we had 5,000 youngsters on the grounds on this day, and they were the happiest lot of children that I have ever had the pleasure of seeing. It certainly was a delight to watch them. On their day they are permitted to visit any show or ride on the grounds for a five cent piece.

With favorable weather, I look for a highly successful fair, and I am hopeful of a new attendance record. So let us all join hands and work together for a bigger and better fair, not only this year but also in the years to come.

HOME EXHIBIT AT FAIR HUGE

Baked & Canned Goods Sections Attracting Housewives

One of the most interesting departments of the Upper Peninsula State Fair is the Home Economics section in the exposition building. This section has been enlarged since the fair last year as it was found that the space alloted to this interesting display was too small.

The department is in charge of Dr. W. T. King of Ahmeek, Mich. Mrs. Leslie French is superintendent, assisted by Mrs. Oscar Kraus and Mrs. J. O. Groos. Entries will not be accepted later than Monday noon. They must be entered under the name of the person who actually made the article.

A great deal of competition is shown in this section and some very fine articles of food have been shown yearly.

In the baked goods section the sum of $269.50 is offered in prizes, divided as follows, for bread $56.25; for small cakes and cookies, $49.50; pastry, $86.50; home made candy, $24.75; canned fruits, $49.50; canned vegetables, $40.25; canned meats, $11.25; preserves, $67.50; conserves, $10.50; marmalades, $7.50; jams, $21.00; jellies, $24.00; fruit juices, $7.50; pickles, $63.00; miscellaneous, $13.50.

Pickles are to be shown in quart jars only, fruit juices in pint containers, preserves in pint jars.

Articles displayed in this section can not be removed until Saturday, August 23 at 9 p. m.

Listed under the miscellaneous articles are maple sugar, quart [illegible] maple syrup, pint jar home made soft soap, pound home made hard soap, home made vinegar and home made honey.

MANY EATING TENTS AT FAIR

Churches to Have Dining Halls; Numerous Smaller Stands

There will be no need for any one to go hungry during the Upper Peninsula State Fair. Not with dozens of places available where one may dine or obtain refreshments conveniently in comfortable surroundings.

Concessionairs who will operate eating places and refreshment stands are stocking up for the vast supply of food and cold drinks that will be required to keep thousands of fair patrons happy as they enjoy their outing at the fairgrounds.

There will be cafeterias and dining halls where one may sit in quiet and comfort to enjoy a real meal of freshly cooked articles. There will be lunch counters where one may grab a sandwich or other bit of something to eat where there is not time for a regular meal. Refreshment stands selling ice cream, candy cold drinks, popcorn, root beer, and other articles of food will be found scattered all over the grounds.

Thousands of dollars worth of supplies will be needed to provide meals and eats for the fair week crowds. Proprietors of the concessions to be opened at the fair are supervising the arrangements of tents and stands and a great deal of money will be spent in preparing to accommodate the visitors.

The fair management is supervising the installation and equipment of all stands so that patrons will be assured that everything meets the fairgrounds' standard for wholesomeness and cleanliness.

Concessionairs.

Among the church organizations who have prepared large dining tents are the Ladies' Aid societies of the Swedish Methodist, Bethany Lutheran, Norwegian Danish Lutheran of this city and St. Paul's Lutheran church of Gladstone, where regular meals and lunches will be served.

R. B. Pratt will have a large dining tent near the horse barns where a regular meal or lunch may be had.

These cafeterias and dining halls will serve fish on Friday for those who prefer it.

Smaller stands will be operated by Mrs. Charlotte Burnell, Mrs. Ed. Beauchamp, Mrs. Allard, B. L. Harriman, W. L. Johnston, John Crozier, Nathan Frenn, Wm. McCarthy, Kenneth McCarthy, A. Frizzee, Bethany Lutheran Church, Rapid River, Mrs. Barius Frasher, Herbert McDonald, Gladstone, Mrs. John Lake, Ed. Tuomi, Trenary, Paul Darras, Iron Mountain, James Chandler, Ionia, R. J. Viau, Bark River, Jalmer Salo, Munising and Wm. Prue, Green Bay.

Other concessions will include R. O. Flath, popcorn wagon, E. L. Herro sweet shop, George Herro, root beer stand, Clarence Lemerand, ice cream sandwich stand.

Kiwanis to Meet at Fair Monday; Novel Program

In observance of Delta-Alger-Schoolcraft day at the Upper Peninsula State Fair, the Escanaba Kiwanis club will hold its regular weekly luncheon meeting at one of the church dining halls at the fair grounds on Monday.

Kiwanians are urged to bring their wives to the meeting. Special entertainment will be provided by the fair board.

The club members will meet at the office of George E. Harvey, secretary of the fair, underneath the grandstand before going to the luncheon.

MAKES RECORD BICYCLE TRIP

Edward Marsh Pedals His Way From Battle Creek to Garden

Garden, Aug. 16 (Special)—While Captain Frank Hawkes was setting a new tronscontinental air record, an unsung hero was pedalling his way to a transpeninsula cycling record which probtbly will stand for some time to come.

Edward Marsh of Battle Creek, a toll long-legged college student, arrived in Garden at 4 o'clock Friday morning after a two-day trip in which he covered nearly four hundred miles.

Like the famous aviator, Marsh was beset by a triple hoodoo. He left home on the thirteenth of the month, and maintained an average speed of thirteen miles per hour, spending thirteen hours on the road for each of the two full days he travelled. The first night was spent at Whitehall, near Muskegon. Next the intrepid traveler turned his wheel toward the north country, arriving at Frankfort just before the departure of the carferry for Manistique. From Frankfort he sent a telegram, advising Garden friends of his coming, but with his speedy method of locomotion, he beat the "wire" by about seven hours. In a way his bicycle might have been considered a handicap since no motorist would even consider giving him a lift and the only part of the long trip not affected by direct muscular activity was the 90 miles across Lake Michigan.

Arriving in Manistique in the dead of night he found no friendly automobile waiting to convey him to his destination and he immediately set out to complete the remaining 30 miles between Manistique and Garden.

While eating a hearty breakfast, he disclosed the fact that his physical condition was excellent, requiring only a few hours sleep in order to restore it to a condition of perfection. This he was able to secure after his appetite was appeased.

The bicycle shows no harmful effects of its long journey and needed no adjustments except to tighten the cone on the front wheel. The tires did not even need refilling during the trip.

While in Garden, Ed is making his home with Kenneth Heafield, a son of Rev. and Mrs. H. Heafield, who is also a student at Olivet. They both expect to attend the U. P. State Fair at Escanaba, although the cyclist has not intimated that he will "wheel" it there.

Farmers Lose Livestock

State Trapper Howard of Trenary has been called to Garden in response to numerous complaints of farmers losing livestock. The Foote Brothers who wintered nearly three hundred sheep report the loss of eight during the past month. David Horning, a neighbor farmer, has lost one calf in the same period. Several calves have disappeared from the William Bonifas farm, a large stock farm close by the other two. Opinions differ as to the cause of the loss. A bear has actually been seen several times on the Bonifas farm, and of course is to blame in the opinion of some. A sheep chasing dog was shot on the Foote farm, and of course was to blame and still others lay the blame on coyotes. Howard has not yet committee himself but has set his traps and will have some definite word to say when he returns to his traps in a few days.

Other News Notes

Garden creek is dry, bone dry, perhops for the first time since it became a creek. Oldest residents do not remember it dry before. Several herds of cattle in adjoining pastures depend upon it for their water supply. The village board has taken advantage of the dry spell and built a dam in order to have an adequate water supply for fire protection at all times.

Mrs. William Gauthier, 74 years old, has it is believed, established a record for donning a bathing suit and bathing in Indian Lake, near Manistique. With a little assistance she also stood on her head and for her outstanding feat, as well as her upstanding feet, she received a prize of a boz of marshmallows.

It was on the occasion of a picnic gathering given by members of the Altar society of St. John the Baptist church. She had asked to be excused from participation in the races on account of her advanced age and was jokingly told that if she did not race she would have to stand on her head, or pull off some other stunt. She was game.

Six auto loads of members and friends of the Altar Society of St. John the Baptist church motored to Indian Lake, Manistique, Wednesday afternoon on the occasion of the annual picnic. The weather was a little chilly but it did not seriously interfere with the pleasure of those present and a large number of the ladies took the opportunity to take a swim in the cooling waters. Various races and sports were enjoyed during the afternoon. Mrs. Tom Peterson was awarded a prize for being the fastest runner. Mrs. Robert Lester came out first in the stout women's race, and Mrs. William Gauthier the special prize, as reported elsewhere. Refreshments, including ice cream, were served before the party started for home.

Between thirty and forty men from the Gtrden district have been out six miles east of the village fighting fires during the early part of the past week. At present the situation is well under control. At one time, the MikeGoldie residence was in serious danger of destruction by the fire. A field of grain close to the house and barn was cut a little prematurely, in order to give better protection to the buildings. The farm home and buildings of Joseph Bartis were also threatened. No serious damage is reported to standing timber or other property. So far as this district is concerned the fires have been confined almost entirely to cutover lands and worthless slashings. The experience of the past weeks should be a reminder to all woodsmen of the importance of cleaning up all waste matter as soon as possible after cutting.

Paul Lamkey and Louis Londo left here Monday for the Soo where they will transact business and also visit friends.

Dr. Roger Boothby of Kirksville, Mo., arrived here Friday and is visiting Dr. and Mrs. John A. Lown at the local hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. John Lown, Richard Baker and Mrs. Cyrus Lown and daughter, Charlotte, of Royal Oak visited in Fairport Thursday.

Dev. Lee Mooney with his wife and little son, Donald, also Mrs. Mooney's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Wiliaim Carr of Ann Arbor, were callers at the Congregatonal parsonage Friday. Later in the day they motored to Fayette where they visited friends. Saturday they went to Escanaba, Mr. Mooney's home town. He is at present pastor of a group of Methodist Episcopal churches in the Battle Creek district.

Paul Cauldwell of Fayette left here Thursday for his home near the Soo in order to attend an annual reunion of members of the family. He expects to be back here early in the coming week.

FOSTER CITY ITEMS

Foster City, Mich., Aug. 16 (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bouchard of Milwaukee, and Frank Quindan of Algonac, arrived here Thursday to spend a week with friends. Mr. Quinlan taught school here two terms.

Agnes Ekstrom and Goldie Johnson left for Hagerman Lake Friday to attend the young people's conference of the Mission churches of Upper Michigan.

Margaret Milligan arrived home from Green Bay Friday to spend two weeks at the parents' home here.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. LaLonde motored to Powers Thursday evening. They were accompanied by Mrs. R. LaLonde, who has been visiting friends and relatives here a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. George Burkman of Iron Mountain, arrived Thursday to spend the week-end at the home of Mrs. Burkman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hemming Gronlund.

IT'S WISE TO CHEVROLET CHOOSE A SIX

Announcing a new production record

2,000,000 Chevrolet Sixes now on the road

Since January, 1929, Chevrolet has produced and sold over 2,000,000 six-cylinder automobiles—nearly five times as many as any other manufacturer has ever built in an equal length of time.

These 2,000,000 buyers have chosen Chevrolet because it offers many desirable qualities not obtainable in any other car so low in price—

—the smoothness, silence and flexibility of a modern six-cylinder engine—the comfort and roadability of a modern, full-length chassis—and the style, safety and distinction of bodies by Fisher.

Yet, despite these fine car advantages, the Chevrolet Six is unusually economical. Its gas, oil, tire and upkeep economy is unsurpassed. And any model can be bought for a small down payment and easy monthly terms! Come in today. Learn for yourself why two million buyers have agreed—"it's wise to choose a Six."

SIX-CYLINDER SMOOTHNESS AT LOW COST

Triangle Ranch of Amasa Is Largest East of Mississippi River

Roping and Branding Mean Only Work for Real Cowboys From Far West Who Ride 'Em Hard on Peninsula Plains

BY AMY W. BOLGER

IS your private notion of a ranch the merry riding, rustling and roping of a motion picture or an occasional rodeo or circus? If it is, prepare for a complete change of opinion.

A ranch, of course, has its picturesque details, but aside from these, it is, without any doubt, one of the biggest undertakings in the country, involving the detail of an extensive institution, executive responsibilities overwhelming to the uninitiated, the organization of a successful business.

And one of the finest in the country, Triangle Ranch of the Rosebush Ranch company, a western beef cattle ranch, the largest east of the Mississippi, with one of the outstanding Hereford herds of the country—that same Triangle Ranch, whose show herd of Herefords is one of important features of the third annual Upper Peninsula State fair—is here in Michigan, near Amasa, just a short drive away.

You will find the entrance to the ranch, unobstrusive but business like, as every detail of its management seems to be, at the highway nine miles north of Amasa, a triangle of white, black lettered. The gate is accommodating, swinging open and closing by means of a pulley rope which is easily reached from a car, instead of the usual "get out and do it yourself" type.

Pastures and woods, fields under cultivation, expanses of grazing land are on either side of the three mile roadway to the main entrance. And if you are fortunate you may see a part of the herd near the road, beautiful creatures, red and white with the Hereford markings, who pause in their munching to look up and gaze placidly at the intruders.

Ranch Headquarters

The Ranch headquarters, offices, main barns, machine shops, store rooms, living quarters, bunks and mess hall, the "Hilltop House," the manager's residence, and the cottages, are just beyond this second entrance. Here you will find G. L. Weber, president and general manager, who despite a multitude of business items leaves them to extend the courtesy of friendly guidance to visitors, explaining details of the Ranch, its operation, its personnel, the Hereford characteristics, breeding and a thousand and one important particulars which brings the casual visitor to a startling realization of how very little he knows about a number of things.

This Mr. Weber, himself, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, has the spirit of friendly comradeship which marks the real executive. For instance, on this particular visit, Joe, encountered in the main cattle barn, was questioned as to the amount of feed he had on hand. "Not a hell of a lot," was the ready reply. "Well, Joe," Mr. Weber was smiling in enjoyment at the straightforward answer, "just how far do you think 'not a hell of a lot' will go? I am sending in an order this morning." And a short time later, Joe appeared to tell his executive that he would need about thirty-seven bags of corn.

10,000 Acres

The Triangle Ranch itself covers 10,000 acres of land, and 10,000 additional acres are used for grazing purposes. The Ranch Herd numbers 1734 head of registered and purebred cattle. The Ranch buildings include five large barns, two at headquarters and three at other points on the ranch, in addition to the offices and living quarters. All of this—the result of an organization formed ten years ago by Judson G. Rosebush with the object in view of proving the value of cut over land for agricultural purposes.

Are there real cowboys on the Triangle Ranch? There are. Westerners, most of them. "For," Mr. Weber explained, "the westerner is the real cowboy. Some of these easterners who would like to be cowboys have the experience of their horse falling on them about twice and they are through. The western cowboy takes it as part of the day's work, he has had all that spunk taken out of him years before. He just gets up, gets his pony on its feet and goes on about his business. If a man cannot ride and buck a horse he is of no use to us here."

The cowboys on the Triangle Ranch wear full regalia, not for show, but of necessity. A trip on horseback through the brush trails of a ranch without leather chaps is advised for anyone who thinks that they are merely a costume. Roping is part of the day's work, there isn't much of it done for amusement. Just now horse-shoe pitching is the popular entertainment at the Ranch. Myles Summer, who came from Colorado, a comradely westerner with an engaging smile and a lazy drawl, is cattle foreman, Ralp Marquette is ranch foreman.

Beaver Ranch

A beaver ranch which is also a Triangle Ranch project, is away off in one corner of the extensive holdings, covering about 300 acres of land. A Canadian trapper, Donald Smith by name, who has had six years' experience on the trap lines in Canada and who has a wealth of experience and knowledge of the animals and their habits, is in charge of the ranch. Just how many beavers there are now, nobody actually knows. The beaver ranch is an experiment, a bit of pioneering in that particular industry.

The Triangle ranch has its younger element, too, Bobby, the four year old son of the Webers and the young son of the ranch cattle foreman who are both growing up to be ropers and riders. Bobby, a charming curly headed youngster, rides his black pony like an old-timer, and the foreman's young son has his own cowboy outfit and joins in the ranch work whenever he is permitted to do so.

Last year the Triangle Ranch exhibited a small show herd at three fairs, and won a total of over $700 in premium money, 12 grand champions, 8 reserve champions, 38 firsts and two seconds. This year the Ranch will exhibit a show herd of eighteen head at the third annual Upper Peninsula State Fair, beginning Monday morning, and at five other fairs.

Show Herd at Fair

The show herd will be as follows: Baby Brae and Model Gay Lass, two year old cows; Rose Royal 2nd and Wild Rose 2nd, cows; Madrian Woodford and Stanway Bonnie, yearling heifers; Maple's Lad, 186th Herd bull; Wallis Bloomer, Model Image, Rubert's Boy and Jupiter's Son, yearling bulls; Gay Boy Woodford, two year old bull and in addition two heifer calves and two or possibly four steers.

This show herd, represents the finest of the Herefords of Triangle Ranch, and it will be one of the features of State Fair exhibits.

This Upper Peninsula Ranch Has Real Western Atmosphere

Rosebush Triangle Ranch Will Send Fine Beef Cattle Herd to U.P. Fair

Just why the Rosebush Triangle Ranch's show herd will be one of the important features at the Third annual Upper Peninsula State Fair, which opens Monday morning at the State Fair Grounds, here, may be learned from the rating of the herd, which is perhaps best given in a history of the Ranch herd.

This history, presented in an interesting fashion by G. L. Weber, president and general manager of the Ranch, will of unusual interest, particularly now, when the Fair will present an opportunity to see the show herd of the Ranch.

Mr. Weber's story of the herd history follows:

"That the Hereford Cattle in the Ranch herd of 1700 head excel in modern breed type, and characteristics is the customary expression and usual reaction of the experienced cattlemen who visit the Ranch. For ten years the Ranch Company has practiced the accepted and tried breeding policies that made Bakewell and Cruickshank famous with the result that they have not only one of the largest herds in the country from the standpoint of modern type, uniformity, and good beef producing qualities.

Intact Herd Purchased

"After a thorough search over the country the first cows purchased were the Senator Hatten Herdof New London Wisconsin. This herd consisted of 55 head of richly bred Lord Hansen cows in the development of which neither time nor money was spared. They were big, rugged cows, accustomed to mid-western conditions, and quickly acclimated themselves to range conditions. The second purchase was made in the fall of 1924 from Wallis Huidekoper of Wallis, Montana. Three hundred and twenty five cows and ten bulls, among them Director Domino by Prince Domino. This herd was one of the very elite herds in the West, and represented the very best blood lines in their pedigrees. All were pure bred and registered. The cows wore the bull head brand and they were famous for their low down, short legged, straight tops, beefy confirmation, good milkers, and sure breeders. Aside from these two herds of cows, few females have been purchased.

"Just a few names will tell more about the kind of bulls which have been used at the Ranch. We must begin with Director Domino, Gay Boy 80th, Adjutant, Chinook, and Wyoming 20th which were purchased from Huidekoper of Montana; follow them with Model Brae sold once for $7,000.00, Bonnie J. Woodford, Fergusen's King 8th and Reapeater Wyoming purchased from George L. Ball of Pittsburgh, Pa., Keno Curtis, son of Richard Fairfax $50,000 McCray Bull, and finish with two Maple's Lads, 193rd and 186th, present herd sires bred by J. C. Robinson of Evansville, Wisconsin. Each of these splendid bulls was used first in the Registered herd and then along with their sons out of Huidekoper cows, in the commercial herd.

Present Herd

"The Ranch Herd now consists of over 1700 head of registered and purebred cattle. A small show herd was exhibited at three fairs last fall and won a total of over $700.00 in premium money, 12 Grand Champions, 8 Reserve Champions, 38 firsts, and 2 seconds. This year the show herd will consist of 18 head, and will be exhibited at six fairs."

Supports Osborn

Sault Ste. Marie—A firm supporter of Chase S. Osborn for Senator, visited the Sault yesterday in the person of John Joseph, Sugar Island Indian, whose age is reckoned near the century mark.

John Joseph, grandson of a Chippewa chieftain, John Joseph Wabatan, with the heritage of the race in his veins, and a mind filled with reminiscences of the rugged early life of this region, looked out serenely upon the world yesterday from aboard the yacht, Zheshebe Minis, and concluded that Chase Osborn should be the "Big Chief" in the United States Senate.

John Joseph is a kindly old man. He was attired in a neat dark suit of clothes, tan shoes and a derby set above his furrowed forehead. His pleasant smile and observing glance belie his extremely ripe old age.

The Rock of Gibraltar is about 1473 feet high.

SUGAR HALTS SLEEP.

Hamilton, N. Y.—Those who have trouble sleeping at night are consuming too much sugar, according to results of experiments conducted in laboratories of Colgate University. There it was found that it is possible to stay awake for a much longer period by eating sweet foods than others. The sugar produced restlessness which hindered sleep.

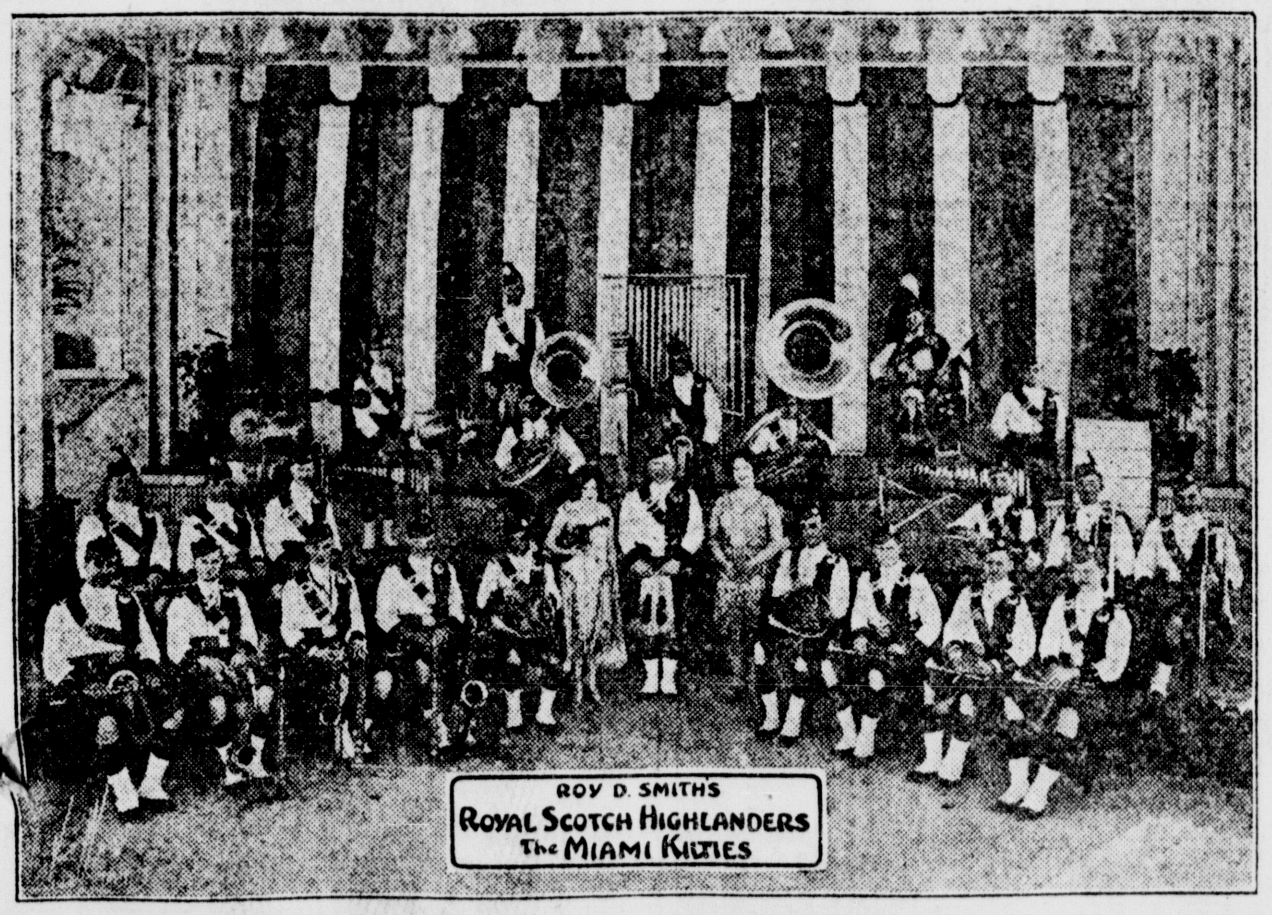
It is believed impossible to find a man over 40 years old who has perfect eyesight.

Word From Russia

Ironwood—That Charles Harry of Montreal reads every line in The Daily Globe including the advertisements when it arrives in Russia and that the daily visit of the paper is eagerly looked forward to by the Gogebic range residents was the information conveyed in a letter to J. C. Flanagan from his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joseph M. Flanagan, the former Hattie James of Bessemer.

Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan, Charles Harry of Montreal and A. L. Foss of Ramsay reside in a villa at Vecherny Kut Krevai Rog. District U. S. S. R., which, believe it or not, is a small village in Russia. Four women and eight men are included in the American party.

Carload of Scotch Will Arrive Today



An entire carload of Scotch will be unloaded here today with the sanction of federal officials. It is, however, a brand of Scotch that will meet with favor everywhere. The Royal Scotch Highlanders Band will unload their clarinets, cornets, bassoons, trombones, bagpipes, etc., and will appear as a feature attraction in the pretentious musical singing and dancing show, the "1930 Fiesta" at the Upper Peninsula State Fair. The wild, eerie music of the bagpipes will alternate with the mellow tenor of the French horns and the jazzy syncopation of the saxophones at the afternoon concerts, while at the night performances of the "fiesta" this famous musical organization becomes a stellar part of the stage show, taking its place on the stage, in the approved and modern presentation style among an array of half a hundred artists of the musical revue and operatic world.

NITISNAY

Makes you mad.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or what not. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

CORRECTIONS

(1) The song the girl in the center is referring to is the Maine, instead of the Main, stein song. (2) Ukulele, in the conversation of the girl at the right, is spelled incorrectly. (3) Ukuleles have a round hole in the center, instead of holes like a violin. (4) The tailpiece on the ukulele is that of a violin. (5) The scrambled word is INSANITY.

Lumber Town Doctors Worked Hard Back In 90's; Dr. Bohn Knows

By Marjorie H. Morrill

Newberry, Mich., August 16. (Special)—Half of a long life time in a country such as the upper peninsula of Michigan puts a mark of independence and self reliance on a man. Congressman Frank P. Bohn of Newberry may be explained in such terms. It was forty years ago on the ninth of July that a tall young man of twenty-four stepped from the train at the hustling town of Seney. He was dressed as a young physician should be in the cities of that time; long-tail coat, grey trousers and a high silk hat. Now Seney was, on that summer day, full of lumberjacks and river men and the young doctor went swiftly to a hotel and changed those garments of dignity for his one other suit. This is as the gentleman now tells it. "Never worn a silk hat since!" he laughed.

Were Hard Days

Those were hard days but good for making of the stronger attributes. There were no roads excepting the logging roads some of them impassable excepting when frozen. The young doctor rode his horse for miles through the woods and swamps, in the winter using dog-teams or walking on snow shoes. He remembers making a trip of sixty miles to set a leg. The exposure was terrific. Often after hours of struggle through storm or drifts he would find himself in a woodsman's shanty with a serious operation on his hands. There were no telephones, no nurse to prepare and attend, no one to call in for consolation. "Nothing but my two hands and what I carried in my bag," the doctor tells. More than a few persons are still alive and well who owe their health and life to an operation done on a camp table with the time-keeper or some other workman giving the anesthetic, with kerosene lamps or lanterns for light and the constant danger of explosion of the ether.

"In this day of laboratories and x-rays we wonder how it was that so many of the patients lived," Dr. Bohn laughed. "We just had to do what seemed the right thing." He tells of making a long trip to a lumber camp to see a man with a fractured leg. It was a bad break. With the help of a lumberjack assistant the bones were set in a plaster cast put on. It was ten years before the doctor saw that patient again and that was one day when he was making a trip on the South Shore to see a patient a passenger came up and explained that he was the man. The result was perfect as one could wish. "It was a hard school, but a good one," smiled the doctor.

Newberry in 1898

A few years in Seney, a year or so in Grand Marais and then Dr. Bohn moved to Newberry in 1898 where he has lived since practicing his profession through a large territory with outstanding success.

DR. FRANK P. BOHN

In or about 1895 he became a member of the banking firm of S. N. Dutcher and Company later purchasing the Dutcher interests and in 1908 organizing the Newberry State Bank of which he is president.

Dr. Bohn was educated in the American Normal College at Danville, and the Medical College of Indiana. He has always had close to his heart the interests of Luce County and the upper peninsula and has served them in both big and small but valuable ways. He has had a finger in most of the important financial deals made in this locality, has been president of the village of Newberry, trustee of the Newberry State Hospital and he delights in the annual Bohn honor banquet given for the last four years to outstanding students of the local high school. So, it was not surprising that he should be elected to represent this district in the state legislature where he proved his worth in the legislation which produced the state ferry at the Straits and other important projects. He is now serving his second term as congressman from the 11th district and is candidate for reelection.

People who live close to the base of all life; the woods and fields, have a closer understanding of humans and their needs. Dr. Bohn has had a fine education. He knew this country in its hard days and he watched its changes through the years, had his own share in those hard days and in the changes. He represents this district well.

There is almost one-half as much standing timber in Japan as there is in the United States.

The greatest earthquake area in the world is said to be in Italy.

SLANG

Logging Operations of Past Day Had Peculiar Jargon

The old logging days are gone but they have left a trail of slang expression which are used in many present day vocabularies. Perhaps the most common of these is the word "haywire." Used originally in the logging camps, the term is now generally used by practically every one in the country. Its origin, however, is not so generally known.

It was coined many years ago in the lumber district in Maine. At that time hay for the camps was first bound into bundles with thin strands of wire. When the bales were opened, thrifty loggers saved the wire. Soon teamsters and other employes began to use the wire for mending harnesses, wrapping ax helves, and for a thousand other uses. It wsn't long before a camp whose equipment was liberally patched with wire was known as a haywire camp, given to shoddy methods, a cheap concern.

However, many of the words used in the timber industry of bye gone years constituted a language all its own, words which with the passage of times have not yet been accepted into the vocabularies of other industries. One of these terms still in use is the "bull cook." This word dates back to the times when oxen or bulls supplied the motive power in logging operations. Contrary to general belief, the bull-cook in reality is not a cook at all. He received his title because he mixed the bran and cornmeal with which the bulls were fed. Today, the bulls are no longer used in logging operations and the bull cook of the camp is the camp chore boy.

The Ink Slinger

The "cookee" of the camp isn't something to eat but is the chore boy in the kitchen and usually waits on table, etc. This person is commonly called "flunkey" on the Pacific coast.

The time keeper is known as the ink-slinger because when the employe decides to quit, he tells the timekeeper to "sling the ink."

A "high ball" camp is one in which the men are driven and the work is hard. The high ball camps were usually spotted and the word passed around to the laborers to keep away from them.

An inexperienced man is a "dude" or a "hoosier." To hoosier-up on the boss means to slow down. The employment agent for a lumber camp is known as a "job shark." His office is usually located on the skidroad, a part of the town where lumbering employes usually hand out.

"Boiling-up" means that the logger is washing his clothes. At that time, the camps were far from sanitary and clothes usually had to be boiled a long time in order to get all the dirt out of them.

Corks are metal points used by the logger's in their boots to prevent them from slipping. Tin pants were also worn by the logger. They were trousers which have been made waterproof by a paraffine combination. They became so stiff that they would stand up on the floor without props.

The blankets in a camp were called sougan. And the employes of the camps usually chewed "snoose," Copenhagen snuff, which is much damper than the snuff used in the Colonial days.

Work Begins This Week On New Phone Building; Gustafson Is Contractor

G. A. Gustafson, of Iron Mountain, who has been awarded the general contract for the new telephone central office of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., will begin construction the early part of this week, he stated yesterday.

The amount of the general contract is more than $50,000, and together with the mechanical work, the total cost of the building will be approximately $80,000. When the equipment is installed the structure will represent an expenditure of $210,000.

Mr. Gustafson was unable to state yesterday how many men would be employed at the new job. Work will be pushed along during the fall and winter months, however, so that the building will be ready for occupancy by May 1, the date stipulated in the contract.

The new building will be constructed of reinforced concrete, with outer walls of red face brick, trimmed with limestone. Its architecture will be semi-colonial. The edifice will set back from the lot line sufficiently to provide room for an attractive lawn, which will be landscaped. It will front 60 feet on First Avenue south, and will extend back 47.5 feet on Tenth street. At the rear will be located a three-car garage for housing the company's motor equipment. Exclusive of the garage there will be 7,700 square feet of floor space.

The basement will contain rooms for the power plant, cable vaults, heating plant and storage space. Local and long distance telephone lines, entering the building through cable vaults in the basement, will lead to the terminal room equipment on the first floor. The first floor also will contain a modern business office of the counterless type, in which customers will be seated at individual desks to transact telephone business with company representatives.

For the terminal room, the lines will pass to the switchboards in the local and long distance operating room, located on the second floor. The remainder of the space on the second floor will be devoted to class and retiring rooms for the operating staff.
